

Mafia Control Alleged

Federal Agent States Criminal Society Dominates Garbage Collection Rackets

WASHINGTON (AP)—A federal agent testified today the Mafia, notorious criminal secret society, has moved in on New York's garbage collection rackets.

Joseph Amato, head of a special investigating squad in the Federal Narcotics Bureau, also told the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee that Vincent J. Squillante, whom the committee has named as a kingpin in the garbage racket, is "an important figure" in the Mafia.

"He is considered by me and my office as a major source of supply for narcotics as well as being a prominent racketeer," Amato said.

Sen. Ives (R-NY) asked whether Amato had heard testimony that linked the name of Squillante with the slain gangster Albert Anastasia and the garbage racket, and whether he considered the garbage racket has become "something operated by the Mafia?"

"Yes, sir," Amato replied.

There had been testimony from two garbage collector brothers—John and Anthony Montesano—that gangsters moved in on the Garbage Collectors Assn. in Nassau County, N. Y., in connection with negotiation of a contract with a Teamsters Union local.

The Montesanos said the gangster move began when they called in Squillante for assistance in contract negotiations.

They said Squillante, described by Chairman McClellan (D-Ark) as a man who grabbed a "stranglehold" on garbage trade associations, moved swiftly after he was asked for advice in the fall of 1954.

John Montesano said he was on the negotiating committee but "the union had lawyers and I wasn't capable of dealing with lawyers."

He said he asked for advice from Freddie (Pasta) Fasula, sergeant at arms of the Intercounty Cartmen's Assn., and was introduced to Joe Feola, alias Joey Surprise, who suggested he talk with Squillante.

The committee said Fasula—whose nickname John Montesano said means "beans and macaroni"—has a criminal record including burglary, auto theft, larceny and other charges. Feola's record, committee staff members have testified, includes a charge of killing a New York policeman.

Sketch Traps Man Involved In Rape Cases

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A man seized because of his resemblance to a police artist's sketch was reported by police today to have admitted a series of rapes in which the assailant used a ruse to trap his victims.

Patrolman Chester Voelpel, armed with the sketch drawn from descriptions furnished by the victims, last night arrested a man who identified himself as George Henry Frangel Jr.

"As soon as I spotted him, I recognized him," Voelpel said. The patrolman and Police Lt. George Dreckshage said the 27-year-old father of four orally admitted the attacks. Voelpel said Frangel admitted four rapes and three attempted rapes.

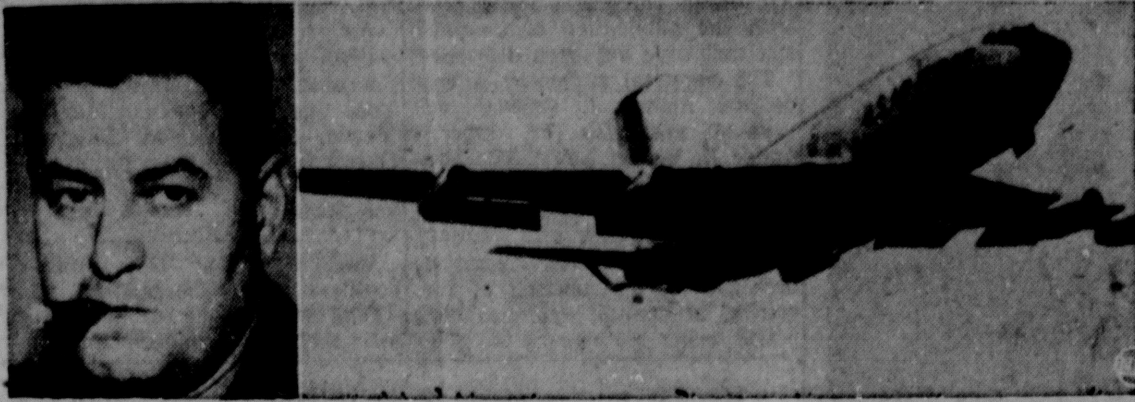

The latest rape was reported yesterday by a 41-year-old married woman. She said her assailant signaled her car to a stop, told her the car's fuel tank was on fire and instructed her to turn off the ignition.

Peiping Radio Claims US-Made Arms Meant For China Sabotage

HONG KONG (AP)—Peiping radio charged today that American-made arms seized by Hong Kong police last weekend were intended for Nationalist Chinese sabotage and terrorist activities in Red China.

The radio, quoting Communist newspapers in Hong Kong, said the arms had been brought into Hong Kong from Formosa and hidden here by American and Chinese Nationalist secret agents.

Hong Kong police over the week end seized two caches of American-made arms, including 16 pistols and eight submachineguns. They arrested five Chinese men and three women but refused to say where the arms came from or what was to be their use.

MAKES RECORD FLIGHT—General Curtis LeMay, left, has hung up a new record for the Air Force by flying a KC-135 jet tanker plane non-stop from Westover Field, Mass., to Buenos

Aires in 13 hours and 7 minutes. The plane he used is shown at right when it took off from Seattle Nov. 1 in an unsuccessful attempt to set a new transcontinental record. (NEA Telephoto.)

LeMay Attempts Inter-American Speed Record on Return Flight

ABOARD KC135 (AP)—Gen. Curtis E. LeMay lifted his record-setting KC135 Jet Stratotanker off Buenos Aires' Ezeiza Field early today in quest of a possible inter-American jet speed record.

The Air Force vice chief of staff and 22 other persons left Buenos Aires about 4:28 a.m. EST.

A Buenos Aires-Washington speed record appeared to be in the making.

Maintenance crews worked nearly through the night preparing the four-jet tanker for the takeoff.

LeMay charted a nearly direct course for the approximately 5,000 miles to Washington on his way home from a quick visit to Argentina's National Aviation Week and a call on Provisional President Pedro Aramburu.

Air Force officers estimated that the trip back would take about 11 hours. LeMay flew south yesterday from Westover Air Force Base, Mass., in 13 hours, 2 minutes, 51 seconds.

On the trip down the Air Force vice chief of staff skirted Brazil, flying over the Atlantic to add about 600 miles to the trip. It set a distance record of 6,325 miles for an officially recorded nonstop, nonrefueled jet flight.

The trip south at an average speed of 485 miles an hour did not set an official speed record, however, because the International Aeronautical Federation recognizes only speed tests from one national capital to another.

LeMay's destination today was Washington. Charles Logsdon, executive secretary of the National Aeronautical Assn., who judged the southbound flight for distance, was returning with LeMay to certify any speed record.

The quick trip home would give an added punch to a good will statement from President Eisenhower which LeMay delivered to Aramburu. Eisenhower said in the message that the long-range flight demonstrated that in the very near future travel between their two countries would require less than half a day.

The KC135 is a military version of the Boeing 707 jetliner, which is expected to go into commercial airline service by 1959. The Stratotanker is designed to refuel the global B52 bomber and other jets, and also can be converted to carry up to 100 troops, or cargo.

Magazines Will Quit 'Expose' Stories on Stars

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Confidential and Whisper magazines have decided to retire from the "expose" field. And, in a development apparently related to this decision, they have won dismissal of one of the conspiracy charges brought against them.

The magazines announced in newspaper ads yesterday that they will "eliminate expose stories on the private lives of celebrities," beginning with the March, 1958, issue of Confidential, and the April, 1958, issue of Whisper.

The ads, said the magazines "never felt that such stories violated any laws," but nevertheless agreed on the format change with the state attorney general and county district attorney.

"We are confident," the magazines said, "that our millions of readers will find the new format interesting and exciting."

After the ads appeared in print, Superior Court Judge H. Burton Noble dismissed a charge of conspiracy to commit criminal libel brought against 11 individuals and 3 corporations connected with the publication of Confidential and Whisper. The prosecution did not object.

A two-month trial of the case ended last summer with a jury deadlocked 7-5 for conviction.

No Mention of Laika

Red Paper Says Russia Will Use Dogs Before Humans

MOSCOW (AP)—Izvestia said today the Soviet Union will shoot many more dogs into space before risking human life in such experiments.

The Soviet government newspaper said the first human space travelers would not be adventurers but "the best people to be found in Soviet society."

Scientific methods of protecting future pilots and passengers from harmful effects must be created beforehand by means of experiments with animals in space, the paper added.

Pravda, the Communist party paper, in a long review of the Soviet earth satellite program, gave what appeared to be the first authentic report with pictures of the structure of the Sputniks themselves.

But neither Pravda nor Izvestia made any direct mention of Laika, the dog passenger on Sputnik II.

Prof. Vladimir Chernogovsky, a member of the Soviet Academy of Medical Science, said in the Moscow News today there was no intention of returning the dog Laika to earth. The professor participated in the preflight training of the dog.

Pravda reported that the second satellite was rocket-shipped with a pointed nose. It was actually the last stage rocket of the carrier. Inside was a sphere patterned after Sputnik I. The sphere contained the dog, radio transmitters and other equipment.

Pravda's pictures and drawings indicated no provision had been made for cata, lting the dog back to earth.

The paper said the air in the dog cabin was subjected to chemical regeneration and that a sys-

Carrier and Subs Enter Critical Area In Search for Plane

HONOLULU (AP)—The Philippine Sea and its covey of planes today enter the critical area in their search for a Honolulu-bound Pan American airliner which vanished last Friday with 44 persons.

The big carrier, with 29 radar-tracking planes and 12 helicopters, completed the first full day of participation in the widespread search yesterday without a clue.

Agriculture Department Predicts Farm Prices Will Soon Stabilize

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department predicted today that farm prices and income will stabilize at or near this year's levels in 1958 after two years of improving.

In an outlook report for the new year, the department said that heavy supplies of farm commodities will tend to keep prices and returns from increasing.

Likewise, prospects for a continued high level of employment off the farm are counted upon to help sustain agricultural markets and prices.

The department said the new year will be marked by a continuation of a long-time trend toward fewer farms and fewer farm people. Because of this, it said, the average income of farm people could well show some increase.

On the farm marketing side, the department predicted a continued strong domestic and export demand. It added, however, that exports may not be as large as this year's record quantity.

The report said that so far this year, prices received by farmers have averaged three per cent higher than in the same period of 1956. Much of the gain has been due to substantially higher prices for hogs and beef cattle. Feed grain prices, on the other hand, are sharply lower as a result of increased supplies.

The department said farm operators realized net income in the first three quarters of 1957 totaled about two per cent higher than in the same period last year. It said that for the full year 1957, realized net farm income—amount left after deduction of production costs—may total slightly above the $12,100,000,000 in 1956 and well above the $11,600,000,000 in 1955, the low point in the postwar period.

For 1958, the most significant changes in farm product prices presently in view of the department are somewhat lower prices for 1958 crop wheat—because of lower price supports—and for hogs for which an increase in production is under way.

The department said farm output next year could well equal or exceed this year's abundant output.

The agency also foresaw some further slight increases in prices paid by farmers for goods and services used in family living and in farm production.

RECORD-BREAKING JET FLIGHT—This map locates the approximate route of the U.S. Air Force KC135 jet tanker on its world distance record for nonstop no-refueling jet flight from Westover Air Force Base in Massachusetts to Buenos Aires. School Board Hears Report of Higher Enrollment Over '56

The Sedalia Board of Education received a report of increased enrollment over the same period last year, approved payment of monthly bills and decided to make a call for bids on miscellaneous supplies needed by the maintenance department in an unusually short meeting Tuesday night. The meeting lasted about an hour and a half.

The monthly bills totaled $27,359.05. Also approved was a resolution adopting the use of facsimile signatures on checks.

Enrollment at the end of the second month of school was 3,832 which is 115 more than for the same month last year.

Locates New Post Office Sub-station

Maurice F. Hogan, postmaster, announces the establishment of a new contract postal station in Sedalia. The station is to be located in the Reinhart-Welch Keen-Kutter Store, 927 South Limit.

"The growth of businesses and residences in the west area of the city has created a need for a station to serve our patrons in that area," the postmaster said.

The opening date for the new station is Friday, Nov. 15. The facilities will be open from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. daily, including Saturdays and Sundays.

Stamps, registry service and parcel post mailings may be made during those business hours. Money order purchases can be made from 8 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Letters and parcels may be deposited in the mail at the station. Mrs. Melva Reinhart will be the clerk-in-charge.

Contract stations are secured through a call from the postmaster for competitive bids from interested and qualified establishments within the area selected for their installation. Advertisements for bids are posted in the lobby of the post office for ten days and qualified dealers are sent notices of the call for bids. They are awarded usually to the lowest bidder.

The new station will be designated Station No. 4. Sedalia patrons are served by three other stations strategically located according to the population needs of the community. They are: Station No. 1, East End Drug, 303 South Engineer; Station No. 2, Bard's Drug, 404 South Ohio; and Station No. 3, Hurtt Pharmacy, 504 West 16th.

Boonville Said Not Important

Katy Manager Says Overall Picture Must Be Considered

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—V. K. Moyer of the Missouri-Kansas-Texas Railroad testified today that "Boonville is not very significant in the overall picture of the Katy's operations."

Moyer, manager of the railroad's mail, baggage and express department, made the assertion during a Public Service Commission hearing on the Katy's request for permission to abandon its last passenger service across Missouri.

Lane Harlan, attorney for the city of Boonville, had just asked Moyer why no effort was made to solicit express business into or out of Boonville.

Moyer said he presumed that all Boonville express shipments were handled over the Missouri Pacific system but he didn't know. He said it is up to the Railway Express Co. what routes express should take.

He said the only time he made any special effort to get more express business was when the Katy could offer better service than any other line operating in the same area.

Haysler A. Poague, attorney for Clinton and some other communities along the Katy route, fired questions one after another at Moyer. He said he wanted to prove that all the communities use express service provided by the Katy to some degree. That would prove, he said, that the Katy is important to the people along the line.

Moyer told the commission that all but 5 per cent of the express out of Clinton is handled over the St. Louis-San Francisco Railroad because the Frisco provides special service.

He said almost no express is handled out of St. Charles or Nevada, Mo., and only transfers of express to or from the Missouri Pacific Railroad are handled by the Katy at Sedalia.

Both sides hoped to complete the case on this fifth day of the hearing.

J. T. Stephenson of Dallas, the Katy's comptroller, was expected to be the final witness. Katy attorneys said they wanted him to explain figures in the railroad's annual report for 1956.

In that report, introduced as evidence yesterday, the railroad reported its Missouri operations earned $14,711,806 last year while operating expenses allocated to Missouri operations came to $9,909,325.

The figures were introduced by PSC attorneys in an effort to show that although the passenger trains lost the company about $120,000 last year, the road made a substantial profit in its overall Missouri operations.

WAFB Negro Is Held For Robberies

Suspect Will Take Lie Detector Test; Victims Identify Him

A/2c James Jones Jr., 21, a Negro, 340th Air Police Squadron, Whiteman Air Force Base, has been picked up and charged with first degree robbery in connection with the holdup of Kay's Cafe on North U. S. Highway 65, last Sunday evening. He was apprehended by the police on a series of tips which were checked out by the police.

Officers Perry Franklin and James Clifford received the first leads on the man. They talked with several persons and finally obtained his name and description. Franklin, in company with Sgt. E. W. Van Winkle of the State Patrol, drove to the air base to obtain a picture of him and to learn if he was there. Informed he was absent, Franklin notified the Sedalia police that the man might be hitch-hiking from Sedalia and to check the highways.

Jones was apprehended at Main and Missouri about 12:30 p.m. as he was starting out to hitch-hike back to the base. Motorcycle Officer Robert Appleman noted him at the corner and placed him under arrest. He was taken to police headquarters and booked for investigation.

Mrs. Lula Tidwell, 1012 South Missouri, who was his latest victim at Kay's Cafe, was the first to go to police headquarters to look at him. Mrs. Tidwell checked his looks, his voice and walk before making positive identification.

Noah B. Reed, 1703 South Osage, agent at the Missouri Pacific passenger depot, who was held up the night of October 31, and robbed of $34, was next to identify him. It was Reed who had the gun displayed in the open on him at the counter of the station.

John Homan, 701 South Montgomery, service station attendant at the Jerry Brown Station on North Missouri, victim of two holdups in a week, the first in which $57 was obtained and the second $36.40, next viewed Jones. He also identified him.

Mrs. Valada E. Foster, 1800 South Park, who saw a Negro at the door of her grocery store, Foster's Market, 16th and Grand about 7 o'clock Sunday night, also identified him. The man approached the door which was locked and when Mrs. Foster refused to open it, he turned and ran to a waiting car and disappeared.

At police headquarters Jones was questioned by Prosecuting Attorney Harold Barrick, Chief of Police Edgar Neighbors, Sgt. E. W. Van Winkle of the State Highway Patrol, W. Z. Heady, special Agent for the Missouri Pacific and Agent Johnson assistant chief of the railroad agents. Jones insisted he knew nothing of the holdups.

During the questioning he agreed to taking a lie detector test at the State Highway Patrol headquarters (Please turn to Col. 8, Page 9)

More Wet Weather Seen For Missouri

Nearly every section of the state has had some rain the past 24 hours, with Malden reporting 1.67, West Plains 1.10 and Butler .72.

Skies were cloudy in the state this morning and the weatherman said there would be occasional light rain or drizzle in the west and north and light rain in the southeast this afternoon and tonight and continuing into Thursday forenoon.

There won't be much change in temperatures with lows of near 40 northwest to the mid-40s southeast and highs in the lower 50s northwest to the mid-50s southeast.

Temperatures through next Monday are expected to average two to four degrees above normal with some more rain Saturday or Sunday.

Slight Dip Last Spring Spreads Out

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Slowly but surely the slight dip in industrial activity which began last spring is widening out today—even as the stock market foretold.

It shows in figures from the steel and oil industries, in textile output cutbacks and weak prices, in factory employment, and even is starting to tinge the white collar worker's outlook.

Consumers continue to spend as much or more for goods and services. But many manufacturers are finding they must produce fewer units if they are to keep their stocks from rising. Higher prices and more use of services color the consumer spending totals.

The economy is still riding high and no great drop is feared. But every month new segments of the economy enter into the current breather.

Steel production this week is lower than at any time since early August 1956, when it was affected by the summer strike. Steel makers are saying they look for little improvement the rest of this year or early in the next, unless their auto customers order better.

The oil industry is being warned that a rough year may be ahead. Demand still tops last year but not by the margin expected. Production is running far enough ahead of consumption to make for price weakness in some products. Gasoline price cuts have been made recently in scattered sections of the nation.

Troubles of the overcrowded textile industry have brought some new price weakness in some lines. To hold down rising stocks several of the bigger textile firms are planning an eight-day shutdown, distribute between the Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays.

Total employment remains near a peak. In October it rose again, but this time chiefly because of an unexpected demand for farm workers. The ranks of factory workers grew slimmer.

In time, some say, this could mean less paper work for front offices, less urge on the boss' part to hold onto white collar help.

US Thinking About Manned Space Ship

WASHINGTON (AP)—An Air Force general says the United States already is doing some preliminary thinking about a manned space ship — although such a project still is a long way off.

Brig. Gen. H. F. Gregory, commander of the Air Force Office of Scientific Research, said in a speech yesterday: "Although it may be somewhat early, it is not too early to be thinking about exploratory research in this area. 'In fact we have been doing it for some time.'"

Gregory described the Air Force project Farside, a recent series of rocket tests, as "one of many efforts that will be required . . . for the successful conquest of space."

The Air Force has said previously that six rockets were fired in the Farside tests in the Pacific and there have been unofficial reports that the sixth shot went more than 4,000 miles into the sky.

Gregory said there was no foundation for reports that Farside personnel had been pressured to speed up the project as a result of Russia's first satellite launching Oct. 4.

It was that event which touched off a general clamor for accelerating the U.S. missile and satellite programs. The second Soviet satellite, one carrying a dog was hung in space Nov. 10.

Former President Harry Truman, in Washington to attend a luncheon in his honor, told newsmen: "We had a missile program before I left the White House — it was broken up after I left."

He said the program was devoted primarily to research from 1946-51, and that it was headed by K. T. Keller, former Chrysler Corp. president who later left government service.

"Somebody ought to institute a specific policy and see that it is carried out," he said.

US Gives Assistance To Ethiopia on Roads, Military Training

ADDIS ABABA (AP)—The United States is quietly building up Ethiopia's military and economic strength.

This East African country might become a base for military operations if the Middle East came under Communist control.

Ethiopia could become a rear staging base both for air and naval purposes, Massawa is an excellent and highly mechanized port, Italian-built. If an Allied fleet could not move through Suez, there is always the open Indian Ocean.

Aside from the potential military importance of Ethiopia, Point Four is spending about 15 million dollars in the country, mainly for agricultural development.

Americans also are working on the highways, originally splendid roads built by Italy but greatly deteriorated.

A fairly large American military mission is training the Ethiopian army. Much American surplus hardware is arriving in the country regularly.

Emperor Haile Selassie seems to be very pro-American, although some of his young men, educated in America, show signs of anti-Americanism. This is a Negro country.

Dismiss Conspiracy Charges in Case Against Magazine

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A conspiracy charge against 11 individuals and three corporations connected with the publication of Confidential magazine has been dismissed.

The dismissal motion by defense counsel Arthur J. Crowley was granted yesterday by Superior Judge H. Burton Noble. The prosecution raised no objections.

A two-month trial of the case ended last summer with the jury deadlocked 7-5 for conviction. The defendants were accused of conspiring to commit criminal libel.

Still before the court is the question of whether Confidential and Whisper magazines were guilty of conspiracy to publish "obscene matter. This was another of the charges in a grand jury indictment.

Judge Noble has indicated he will rule on this Dec. 3.

Miss Holcamp, K. Langkraehr Exchange Vows

Miss Donna Holcamp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Holcamp, and Kenneth Langkraehr, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Langkraehr, all of Concordia, were married October 26 in a double ring ceremony at St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Concordia by the Rev. O. E. Heilmann.

Miss Lois Heilmann played the traditional wedding marches.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of Chantilly lace and tulle over satin which lengthened into a chapel train. The bodice had long tapered sleeves and the V neckline was outlined with sequins and seed pearls. The bouffant skirt was designed with a lace overskirt in front which draped in back to reveal alternate ruffles of lace and tulle. She carried a bouquet of red roses.

Mrs. Lois Holcamp was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Vivian Langkraehr and Miss Carol Pape. Miss Esther Souenkel and Mrs. Beverly Rolf lighted the candles. Their pastel formal dresses were designed similar to the bride's.

Wesley Langkraehr served as best man for his brother. Groomsmen were James Holcamp and Kenneth Niernman. Richard Meyer ushered.

Debbie Bodenstab and Stanley Langkraehr acted as miniature bride and groom.

A reception followed at the VFW Hall in Concordia.

Animals Grow King Size in Toyland

GIANT FIDO—This lovable hound dog is bigger than life—a new addition to Toyland's parade of cuddlesome stuffed animals, real little counterparts of live pets.

By DOROTHY ROE

Associated Press Women's Editor
Toyland in the age of Sputnik is divided into two camps.

There are the toy mechanical marvels of the atomic era, geared to provide play-conditioning for future space pilots, and then there are old-fashioned cuddly toys designed to give fun and comfort to small fry facing the frightening vista of a world often confusing even to grown-ups.

More popular than ever before, for instance, are king-size stuffed animals of all species—the kind of toy meant to be cuddled and taken to bed by small boys and girls. There are dogs and cats, lions and tigers, elephants and kangaroos—practically all the members of the animal kingdom, done with cheerfully beguiling expressions in soft fake fur.

Popularity of Toyland's zoo parade isn't limited to the nursery set either, as girls of high school and college age throughout the country have become avid collectors of stuffed animals, using them to decorate their rooms and to substitute for pillows on their beds.

There are play versions of all the latest electronic marvels for the mechanically-minded youngster, and there also are all the old traditional favorites, such as ABC blocks, spinning tops, dolls and doll houses, push-and-pull toys and toy models of the complete range of housekeeping equipment, from vacuum cleaners to electric stoves.

There is strong emphasis on career toys among members of the Toy Guidance Council, an organization which specializes providing the right toy for the right age, play-testing new toys' before they are put on the market.

In this category are toys designed to develop interest and skills in practically all adult trades and professions, from bridge-building to stenography. Building kits this year come in many varieties, from steel girders to plastic blocks and panels with which Junior can build a skyscraper.

There are guided missile and satellite toys, to keep pace with the space adventures of the International Geophysical Year; and there are many versions of national defense toys, many of which operate electronically.

There are home decorator kits for little girls, costume, jewelry kits, carpentry tools and even do-it-yourself home repairs kits.

For the future artists there are crayon, water color, finger painting and even oil painting sets. Young musicians can have every known kind of musical toy, from saxophone to harp, xylophone to piano.

Kindergarten featuring six kits combining play activities with study training. Included are toys to develop manual dexterity, others to help Johnny with his numbers, others to teach children to tell time and so on.

Santa's toy pack hits the billion-dollar mark this year, and in it there should be a super-toy for every child.

Stevenson Sounds Cautious In Answer to Eisenhower

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — Adlai Stevenson sounds as cautious about helping the Eisenhower administration on foreign policy as a man walking barefoot through a field of broken bottles.

Stevenson, a little like Hamlet sometimes in trying to make up his mind to do or not to do, issued a very carefully phrased statement on the help he'd give.

He stated his position only after the White House erroneously said he had turned down a suggestion that he help.

But since Stevenson is a handy man with the English language, his phrasing is hardly an accident. Translated into very simple English, it sounds like: "I don't want to stick my neck out too far."

At the same time President Eisenhower, who wanted Stevenson's help, played just as cautious about asking him. In fact, he didn't ask him. He had secretary of State Dulles do it.

This is an old story with the Eisenhower administration. The same kind of thing happened with former President Truman, whose relations with Eisenhower have been frigid since 1952.

Early this year Greece and Turkey, planning to celebrate the 10th anniversary of the help Truman started giving them in 1947, wanted him to visit both countries in March. They told the Eisenhower administration.

Eisenhower talked it over with Dulles. But it was Dulles, not Eisenhower, who sent the invitation to Truman. Truman rejected it, saying he had other engagements. Then the State Department said both Eisenhower and Dulles regretted Truman's decision.

There are 44 present including nephews, cousins and other relatives. This was the first Hoover reunion in several years and is to be an annual affair now.

When Eisenhower goes to Paris next month to try to glue American alliances tighter, he'll be in a ticklish spot. He'll need as much solid American backing as he can get, from Democrats as well as Republicans.

Dulles asked Stevenson for help in working out a policy for Paris. Stevenson, although he lost two presidential campaigns, still is titular head of the Democratic party.

But he can't speak for all Democrats, least of all for the most important Democrats between elections: The Democrats in Congress. If they don't like the policy produced at Paris, they'll be free to criticize.

If Stevenson helps make that policy, and the Democrats don't like it, he's in danger of being blasted along with Eisenhower from inside his own party. Yesterday he issued a statement which said:

He could not "undertake to formulate the President's policies" but "I would gladly review and discuss our government's proposals before they were put in final shape."

This is hair-splitting: since he'll be giving his views, he'll be helping to formulate Eisenhower's policies. If Eisenhower buys what he says, he said further he'll back up, publicly and politically, any policy he agrees with.

By that statement he left the door open to criticize any policy he doesn't agree with, although he didn't say so.

Youth Is Held As a Suspect In Bank Raid

TULSA (AP)—A 19-year-old Miami, Okla., youth, now on probation for armed robbery in Tulsa, was arrested late last night as a suspect in yesterday's $4,400 robbery of the First State Bank of Commerce.

Jailed for questioning here was Alfred Glen Smith, of Miami, who also has lived in Tulsa.

Tulsa County Sheriff Ben H. Brown said Smith was arrested after Ottawa County Sheriff Ben Stanley asked that he be picked up.

Meanwhile other officers continued a search in a 10 to 12 square mile area around the Spring River Bottomlands near Miami.

Stanley said the search was made more difficult because the terrain is wooded and hilly, in addition to the rain. He told of finding softened tracks near the bottomlands but said it could have come from duck hunters in the vicinity.

More than 50 men, officers from Kansas and Missouri cities as well as those from surrounding Oklahoma towns, joined in the manhunt.

Two men, masked with scarves and armed with pistols, held six customers at bay in front of the safe after entering the bank in mid-morning. They forced four bank employees to lie on the floor as they went through the cash drawers and took bills in $10 and $100 denominations.

The men did not ask to have the safe opened. It reportedly contained $7,500. They also overlooked one cash drawer which held $5,500.

Denies Death Of Pig in Auto Crash Testing

ALAMOGORDO, N.M. (AP)—A military physician-scientist denies a pig was killed yesterday in a demonstration to show U.S. auto makers how safety devices save humans.

About 100 representatives of car manufacturers are at the Air Force Missile Development Center, attending the third annual Automotive Crash and Field Demonstration Conference.

They saw two men and a bear undergo tests of violent deceleration, such as humans undergo in auto collisions.

An earlier report was that a pig was killed in one of the tests, but Col. John P. Stapp, head of the Aero-Medical Field Laboratory at the missile center, denied that. In a formal statement, he said: "It has been erroneously reported that a lap belt experiment was conducted . . . using an anesthetized pig."

"The facts are two volunteer human subjects, Capt. Eli L. Beeding and A.L.C. Gerald Johnson, were subjected to 27 to 15 times their body weight respectively with a lap belt or safety belt as the only restraint."

"In addition, one bear was decelerated at 20 G's, or 20 times its body weight."

"None of the subjects, human or animal, was adversely affected."

Senator Knowland Against US Efforts To Beat Reds in Race

CHICAGO (AP)—Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) says he is against trying to outstrip Russia's scientific achievements by putting tens of billions of dollars into missile projects, "as some have suggested."

The Senate minority leader told a meeting of the Chicago Better Business Bureau last night that the challenge facing the nation "is to look over the budget and see if we can do something to keep the nation continuing on a balanced budget."

The Defense Department, in adjusting its spending, Knowland added, should "concentrate on muscle and cut out the fat."

He said the last Congress appropriated 34 billion dollars for military spending and that, as of July 1, the department already

Jet Bombers Make Flight To Philippines

MANILA (AP)—Three U.S. Air Force twin-jet B66 bombers swept into the Philippines today after nonstop flight from the U.S. West Coast.

The Air Force said the flight from George Air Force Base, Calif., made in just over 17 hours, was part of an operation to show it can deliver a tactical striking force to help nip brush-fire wars anywhere in the world.

A spokesman said the 8,000-mile nonstop trip was a record for B66s, which can carry atomic weapons. The flight refueled in the air off Hawaii.

A fourth plane in the flight stopped at Wake Island and was due tomorrow.

The B66s are the vanguard of 47 jet fighter and bombers being moved from various U.S. bases to Pacific points in an operation called "Mobile Zebra."

Thirty-one planes are coming to the Philippines and 16 others will stop at Guam.

The flight was led by Col. R. J. Clizbe, 42, of Centralia, Wash., who now lives with his wife and two children at Eglin, Fla.

Scott Remains An Enigma During Trial

LOS ANGELES (AP)—For the past six weeks a suave, silver-haired man has been sitting calmly in a Los Angeles courtroom, listening to a flood of testimony aimed at proving he murdered his wealthy, socialite wife.

As he took his place at the counsel table today, L. Ewing Scott, 61, was just as much of an enigma as he has been since that day more than a year and a half ago when the disappearance of his wife first became known.

Dapper in a $185 suit, relaxed and urbane, he looks more like a businessman attending a board meeting than a defendant on trial for his life.

As Scott lolls back idly, twisting his glasses, he offers a sharp contrast to prosecutor J. Miller Leavy. Bristling with energy, Leavy is always on the move, snapping questions without letup as he paces back and forth.

Leavy's task is a doubly difficult one. Before the jury can convict Scott of murder, it must first be convinced his wife is dead. All that can be proved by direct evidence is that at 4:30 p. m. on May 16, 1955, she was alive and apparently well. She apparently has never been seen since, and any evidence pointing to her murder is circumstantial.

Trying to cover every possible angle, Leavy has put more than 75 witnesses on the stand. The number may reach 100 before he lets up and gives Scott a chance to tell his story.

Among the prosecution witnesses have been:

A dozen or more friends of Mrs. Scott. In pearls, mink stoles and cultured accents, they have described the missing 63-year-old woman as a gay and charming companion, full of life and health and not one to abandon her friends without notice.

Lawyers, financial advisers and bank employees. They have testified that Scott, after marrying the twice-divorced, twice-widowed heiress, gradually took over management of her $600,000 estate and used her funds from the time she disappeared until police entered the case 10 months later.

Police experts. They've told of finding Mrs. Scott's false teeth, which she was known to have been wearing the day before she vanished, in a trash heap on a lot adjoining the Scotts'. And they've testified that her signature appears to have been forged on cards used by Scott after she disappeared to gain access to her safe deposit box and open a joint bank account.

had an additional 36 billion in unspent funds, making a total of 70 billion available for defense spending without additional appropriations."

Adlai May Go To Paris As Ike's Adviser

WASHINGTON (AP)—Adlai Stevenson held out the possibility today he may accompany President Eisenhower to a Paris meeting next month designed to increase Allied cooperation.

From a haze of confusion, the role of the Democrat whom Eisenhower twice defeated for the presidency emerged as that of adviser—and possibly a participant—in proposals Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles will present to a North Atlantic Treaty meeting of heads of state in Paris Dec. 16.

An error by James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, brought on the uncertainty which both Hagerty and Stevenson later sought to clarify.

Stevenson said he had informed Dulles a week ago that "while I could not undertake to formulate the President's policies, I would gladly review and discuss our government's proposals before they were put into final shape."

Hagerty said Stevenson "will be kept informed of the developing program and will, we hope, discuss the items in the program with the administration before they are finalized."

In a bid for bipartisan support, Stevenson reportedly had been offered at first a key position in both formulating and presenting United States proposals to strengthen NATO against Russia's growing missile strength.

Even in the more limited advisory role, officials let it be known that Stevenson could go with Eisenhower and Dulles to Paris if he chose to.

In New York last night, he said he would be willing to attend the Paris meeting. But whether he would go, he said, would depend on the shape of the U. S. proposals. He indicated one condition might be an increase in foreign aid which would require a relaxation of the 275-billion-dollar limit on the federal debt.

By implication he left himself free to criticize any of the administration's proposals with which he disagreed.

Stevenson issued his statement after Hagerty had announced at first that Stevenson would limit his cooperation to commenting on the program after it had been developed.

Hagerty, conceding later he had made an error, said he had misunderstood the meaning of the word "comment." He agreed Stevenson's role would be to consult and comment while the policies were in preparation.

Stevenson, in agreeing to help out, said that "in view of the gravity of our situation in the world I have both a desire and a duty to assist our government, regardless of partisanship or personal convenience."

To Argue for New Kasper Trial Today

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Arguments for a new contempt of court trial were planned today for Northern segregationist John Kasper and six east Tennesseans in U.S. District Court here.

Kasper and six residents of the nearby Clinton, Tenn., area were convicted by an all-white jury last July of criminal contempt in violating Judge Robert L. Taylor's injunction against interfering with desegregation at Clinton High School.

Taylor ordered the defendants to be present for the oral arguments today. He was expected to pronounce sentence immediately.

Surgeons Take Steel Tip From Youth's Eye

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Two 10-year-old boys talked on the telephone yesterday, and they talked of serious things, but they were not sad.

The lad who made the call is Timothy Kearns, who the night before had undergone a delicate operation in which a team of brain surgeons removed a steel-tipped arrow from his left eye.

The call was placed to his pal who had fired the arrow "Hello, this is Tim," the conversation began.

"Ooo, Tim. How—how are you?" "I'm fine. That's why I called. Don't you worry about me. I'm all right."

"I'm glad," the playmate answered. "Well—take care of yourself. Maybe I can come to the hospital and see you. I didn't sleep a wink all night. Well—goodbye."

"Bye," Timothy said. "Don't you worry."

Tim's friend turned to his mother and said: "Honest, mom. I don't have to worry any more." Tim was hurt as the boys played "Indian fighter" Monday.

Tim's physician explained that the arrow, imbedded four inches in the lad's head, was removed without apparent brain damage. And it was hoped the vision in his left eye could be saved.

In the event the new trial motions were denied. Maximum sentence for each is six months in jail and $1,000 fine.

Civil War Vet Will Observe Birthday 115

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Music-loving Walter Williams, the oldest living Civil War veteran, celebrates his 115th birthday tomorrow. A Western band will play some of his favorite tunes.

The white-haired, tobacco-chewing Confederate veteran is three years older than John Sailing of Slant, Va., the only other living Civil War veteran.

Williams' daughter Mrs. Willie Mae Bowles said a small party with the band, cake and some punch was planned. Friends were expected to drop by all day but no big celebration was planned.

Williams has always loved music. Bed-ridden for the past six months, he keeps a radio near his bed and turns it on loud when listening to music.

He rode in an ambulance during the Veterans Day parade Monday and said he enjoyed listening to the bands and hearing the crowds.

The party will be marred for Williams by the absence of his wife, who died Nov. 2 at the age of 84 from a heart ailment. The couple had been married 64 years. Williams does not know she is dead.

Mrs. Bowles has postponed telling her father of his wife's death until after his birthday because of the effect the news might have. Williams' advice for a long life is, "Lead a clean, moral life, get up for breakfast, stay around for dinner and go to bed with supper."

Selection of Jury May Delay Testimony

DENVER (AP)—Selection of a jury may delay the start of testimony in the Ernest J. Mills murder trial until tomorrow, defense attorneys said today.

Mills, 34, is charged with the slaying of his wife Mary, 26. Her body was found stuffed in a refrigerator at their apartment last May 22. Mills was arrested a day later at his mother's home in Gideon, Mo. Twenty prospective jurors had been examined by the prosecution and defense by the end of yesterday's first day in Denver District Court.

Of these, seven were excused when they declared they did not believe in imposition of the death penalty.

Textile Designer Says Americans Have Good Taste

TAMMIS KEEFE — With some of her wilder textile designs.

By DOROTHY ROE

Associated Press Women's Editor

Americans do too have good taste, says Tammis Keefe, textile designer whose tigers and steers are rampant on dish towels and barbecue tablecloths all over the country these days.

"I'm sick and tired of hearing people sneer at American design and American taste," says the blonde, blue-eyed Tammis, whose unusual name is Gaelic for Thomas. (Her father wanted a boy.) "Nobody can sneer at Grand Rapids any more. The best furniture in the world is being produced right in this country today."

"Good design is available on every Main Street from coast to coast. You can find it in the dime store or the supermarket. Almost anywhere you look today you can get enchanting pots, pans and dishes which stack up with comparable design anywhere in the world."

"We have wonderful textile designs, sound architecture, clean, contemporary lines in everything from automobiles to garbage cans."

"I say we are having a modern Renaissance of art and design right in the United States today."

Tammis, who hails from California, designs everything from dish towels to glassware in her airy studio in a fashionable section of New York. She made her first reputation as a textile designer, and today is branching out in all directions. Her most recent enthusiasm is for an ancient Italian mosaic work called Montici, which she plans to adapt for use as table tops and such.

She also is helping to repopularize old English Ironstone ware, giving it new uses. For instance, she has had great success with an old Ironstone pitcher and bowl which has not varied from its original design except for the word "Martini" inscribed on the pitcher and "Ice" on the bowl.

Tammis loves to dream up fantastic designs for dish towels and tablecloths. Before putting out her current series of barbecue cloths, decorated with steaks, chops and somewhat zany cattle she spent days in scientific consultation with her butcher, learning the anatomical parts of steers, and the cuts best suited for the barbecue.

Tammis also designs handkerchiefs gay enough to cheer up anybody, even with a runny nose.

Current Ordeal of Civilized Man, Having Picture Taken

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—One of the recurrent ordeals of civilization is having one's picture taken.

The tribal savage often dreads a camera for fear this magic box by imprisoning his image will also capture his soul.

The civilized man has an even more melancholy fear—that the camera neither will catch his likeness nor reflect his soul. He feels the camera always lies when it's pointed at him.

One of the major differences between men and women in the 20th century is their attitude toward having their picture taken.

Protest as much as she may that "I know this will turn out awful," the woman secretly is sure that actually, by some miracle of modern chemistry, the photographer will manage to make her look all right. She actually enjoys the experience.

The man, on the other hand, goes to the photographer as he does to the guillotine.

It is hard to say when man's fear of the photographer starts. Probably it is in the childhood when, during the taking of a snapshot, some family onlooker calls facetiously:

"Be careful. Your face may break the camera."

The small boy, aware that every remark by a grownup holds a vague possibility of truth, stares in self-conscious fascination at the camera. Will it actually explode or fall apart? For the rest of his life he will never again look head-on into a camera without the same uneasy feeling.

A man's deep disillusionment with the camera, however, comes after he sees his first real portrait—in the yearbook when he graduates from high school. He never quite recovers from this. "Not bad," the family murmurs sympathetically.

Not bad? Are they crazy? Is this the way you really look to others? Are your ears really that big? Is your face really that insipid?

For the rest of his life the boy will regard a photographer as a conspirator in league with the devil to make him look ridiculous to the rest of the world.

He won't mind his wedding pictures so much, no matter how they turn out, because a man honestly expects to look somewhat ridiculous on his wedding day. Nor will he complain overmuch against his passport pictures, as women do, for he recognizes that even customs officers are too kindly to gaze critically at them. Passport pictures, he knows, are universally recognized as horrible and unfair. Some people even send copies to their friends at Christmas with the notation, "guess who?"

After 40, a man will go to the photographer only under family duress or group pressure. When the official picture is taken at the annual office banquet, he tries to bury his face in the fried chicken, or hide behind the man in front of him.

When he is, at times, forced to make the galling trip to a photographic studio he is prepared for the worst. All his life he has jeered at John Barrymore because the actor preferred to have his picture from an angle that showed his favored profile.

Now he envies Barrymore. After all, Barrymore was lucky to

Jewelry Is Misplaced Instead of Stolen

ANGELES CAMP, Calif. (AP)—Actress Rhonda Fleming got her jewelry back last night after it turned out the small aluminum suitcase wasn't lost but only misplaced.

She said the case held about $7,000 worth of jewels she was wearing in a picture being made in this gold country area.

have one side that looked better than the other.

When the portrait is finally delivered and unwrapped, he knows what the family will say: "NOT BAD."

After they have gone to bed, he sits and looks at the picture all by himself. Not bad? Are they crazy? Is he really that fat? What did the camera do to rob him of so much hair?

He tiptoes to the bookshelf, gets out his old school annual, blows off the dust, opens it to his youthful picture.

"H'm'm, not bad," he murmurs. "By golly, I had a good strong face as a kid."

"But they had decent photographers then. What's happened to photographers today? They make a fellow look so namby-pamby. They can't even bring out the character a man's got."

As he goes to bed, however, he will realize, if he's honest, that 25 years from now the new picture he just had made will look pretty good to him, too. Everything is better 25 years later.

Reds Have Trouble Erecting Christmas Tree in East Berlin

BERLIN (AP)—Communist planning went haywire in the Christmas tree department yesterday.

For weeks East Berliners have been waiting for the erection of a promised noel tree—a 100-year-old, 110-foot giant—on Marx-Engels Platz, the city's Red Square.

Finally, out of the forest of Thuringia the shimmering pine was hauled into the square. Enthusiastic citizens gathered to watch complicated cable machinery raise the tree.

The cables went berserk. One pulled one way, the other another way, and the tree snapped in two.

As the pieces were being hauled away, Neues Deutschland, the Communist party newspaper, rushed into print with the comforting news that the Red regime has sent an urgent order to Thuringia: Get another tree quick.

Leak Closes School

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—The Harlandale High School was closed today while repairs were made to a severe gas leak.

Supt. Dillar McCollum ordered the move late yesterday to protect the school's 1,250 students.

McCollum said the leak allowed seven cubic feet of gas to escape each hour. He said the gas meter was sealed for the night and all heating cut off yesterday.

Man Carries Out His Threat to Girl Friend And Kills Himself

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A young man strode into a west Philadelphia taproom the other night, called for a stiff drink, gulped it, then made for a public telephone at the far end of the bar.

He was on the phone two hours, bartender William Alexander said, pleading with a girl not to break off their romance.

Customers caught snatches of desperate entreaty—"Let's try to patch things up, please. . . . You've got to take me back. . . . I'll kill myself if you don't. . . . He signaled for another drink, but did not stop talking, threatening.

Shortly before midnight the caller slammed down the receiver and went out a side door into the street.

A few minutes later he threw himself under a tractor-trailer and was killed.

Detective John Keenan said the man was 27-year-old Benjamin F. Major.

Aircraft Carrier Forrestal Is a Noisy, Floating City

MISSION'S END: A Navy fighter, its wings folded, returns to its nest deep inside the USS Forrestal. In its two years of service, the huge carrier has launched and recovered more than 14,000 aircraft.

By ELTON C. FAY

The Captain and executive officer of the 60,000-ton USS Forrestal are administrators of the biggest, busiest and noisiest "city" afloat.

Almost 4,000 men live and work in this sea-going city.

Everything for living, entirely cut off from land, is at hand on the supercarrier... stores which sell everything from cashmere sweaters and jewelry to soap and cigarettes... a library... a tailor shop... a library... a hobby shop... places for church services of all faiths... a dozen different movies every night.

On this ship, the men responsible — the "mayor" and his principal aide — are Capt. Richard L. Kibbe, native of Sullivan, Ill., and his executive, Cmdr. George C. Duncan of Arlington, Va.

The captain almost never leaves the area of the bridge while the Forrestal is at sea. The "exec" divides his time between the bridge and the multitude of big and little problems of "Forrestal City."

All hands — the officers and the men — live at sea in a constant world of clamor, of noise and hurrying that would mean sleeplessness for any but those hardened to the life.

Except for the Forrestal's experienced crew and airmen, a night operation is a nightmare.

Elevators rumble up to the flight deck, carrying aircraft. The night is pitch black until the eye adjusts and can detect black shapes moving about against a blacker background.

Here and there the glowing red eye of an electric torch flashes briefly. Air crews come topside, swathed in immersion suits, helmeted, life jackets buckled on, carrying notebook knee pad boards. They climb up into cockpits.

From high aloft, the "bullhorn" bellows commands into the dark. Jet engines start. They whine first, then scream as the planes taxi to position over the steam-powered launching catapults.

Flight deck men, with the eyes and nimbleness of cats, scurry in the black night, dodging jet blasts, crawling under fuselages, hooking up the plane to the catapult.

Up near the top of the "island" structure, the men in the control room watch, give the signal.

The minute for launching is at hand. Down on the right hand side of the waiting jet an officer waves an electrically illuminated wand in a tight circle, telling the pilot to run up his engine to full power. The jet's scream grows deafening.

The aircraft, still held in leash, shakes even the stout steel flight deck. Hot, blue flame streaks from the tailpipe. Suddenly, the officer crouches, points his wand to the end of the flight deck. The catapult snaps the multi-ton plane into flying speed in three hundred feet of run, hurling it out beyond the end of the deck. Almost instantly, the aircraft flashes from sight into the night. And another follows hard on its heels. The mission is off.

Red Leader Of Czechs Dies After Attack

VIENNA (AP)—Antonin Zapotocky, one of the leaders in the Communist seizure of Czechoslovakia and its president since 1963, died early today in Prague after more than two years of heart trouble.

Radio Prague announced the death. The veteran Communist would have been 73 next month.

He had been in poor health since suffering a severe heart attack in August 1963. Nine days ago he had another heart attack and the Prague Sanatorium said last night his condition has deteriorated.

Zapotocky was one of the founders of the Communist party in Czechoslovakia. That was in 1921, a year after a meeting in Russia with Lenin which began a lasting loyalty to the Soviet Union.

Conservative in his communism, Zapotocky did not go along with the policy changes of Soviet Premier Georgi Malenkov after Stalin died in 1953. Under his influence as president, Czechoslovakia retained the memory and symbolism of Stalinism after Nikita Khrushchev began to chip away at them in Russia.

Gas Lamps to Stay Lit in Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Philadelphia, which still has 7,500 gas street lamps scattered on many of its narrower lanes and alleys, has decided it can save money by letting the lamps burn day and night.

Streets Commissioner David N. Smallwood told city councilmen yesterday the city could save $100,000 a year by dispensing with a $29 yearly cost per lamp for an automatic system to turn the gas off each morning and on again at night.

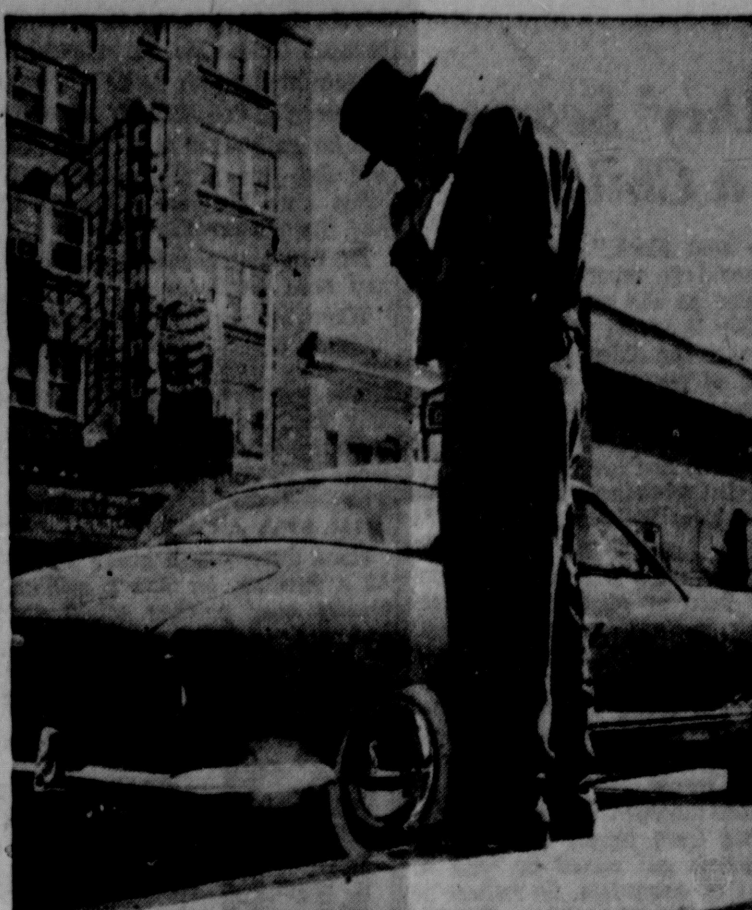

Leaves Son-in-Law Money Just to Spend

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—A woman described as "having a fine sense of humor" has willed $1,000 to her son-in-law "to spend foolishly."

Ben B. Herr, the son-in-law, also was named executor of the estate. He said he didn't know why Mrs. Sara Cecil Taylor should make such a bequest.

The rest of the $100,000 estate was left mostly to Mrs. Taylor's daughter, Herr's wife.

First court in Hardin County, O., was held in a blockhouse in March of 1834.

Says Backup Lights Illegal in State

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)—Bureau of Highway Safety Director O. D. Shipley says those new cars with four backup lights on the rear are illegal. The state motor vehicle code states that cars may not have more than two such lights, one on each side.

Shipley said the bureau will consider the law satisfied if the wiring and light bulbs are removed from the extra lights, leaving the covers for ornamental purposes.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

The Mature Parent 'Fight Another Day' Seems Best Course for a Child

By Mrs. Muriel Lawrence

"Our 8-year-old son is being molested on his way to school by an older boy who's just moved into the next block," writes Mrs. K. "Should we report this bully's behavior to the school authorities? Buddy is afraid of our doing this in case the older boy takes some kind of revenge."

What about locating a new, round about school route for Buddy? Or would he and his father scorn this evasive solution as cowardly "running away?"

If so, I remind Mr. K. that hiding from enemies is a defensive strategy used by all young creatures. Their parents deliberately teach them the art of self-effacement until they have developed the muscles, tusks, antlers and other fighting equipment that enables them to engage their enemies on equal terms.

Unfortunately, in our society, hiding from bigger enemies has somehow got mixed up with notions of cowardice. So fathers resist the idea of saying to harassed little sons, "Until you can take on this big kid with some hope of licking him, stay away from him."

Thus I'm a little nervous about advancing it as sensible paternal counsel. Unless Mr. K. respects it as sensible, too, his belief that he's encouraging "cowardice" in Buddy will be transferred to his child who will feel like a stinker when he hides from his enemy instead of like the resourceful child he is.

He can better endure scratches and nose bleeds.

Where we got the idea that manliness is reacting to all challenges any bully wants to offer, I don't know. But it does seem a pretty silly one. As reasonable people, male or female, we all have to learn to discriminate between time when it's profitable to fight and times when it's not.

Once there was a brave knight. At a jousting, he won a brilliant victory over another knight who had challenged the supreme beauty of the lady he loved. As he was

To Obtain a Perfect Manicure--Take Time

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Beauty Editor

If you would give yourself a professional manicure, never take a short-cut on work that will not show. That's the advice of a professional manicurist whose manicures are known to look lovelier longer. She recommends a simple step-by-step routine, and says a good manicure will take only a few minutes longer than a casual one.

The first job is to condition the nail surface to which polish will be applied. That's the only way you will get a smooth polish finish.

Remove every trace of the old polish with a sterile cotton ball moistened with polish remover. Hold the cotton on the nails until the polish softens. Then wipe it from the base to the tip. Work neatly, so you will not smear polish on the skin around the nails.

When you have shaped the nails with the file and pushed back the cuticle with the wide end of the orange stick, give the nails a good scrubbing with a stiff brush and soapy water. Rub each nail vigorously with the towel when you dry your hands. The scrubbing and towel rubbing should

Carlos Garcia Wins Office In Philippines

MANILA (AP)—Carlos P. Garcia, political heir of the late President Ramon Magsaysay, virtually clinched the Philippine presidency today. But the voters were giving him an opposition leader as vice president.

Garcia and the apparent next vice president, Diosdado Macapagal, are both considered good friends of the United States. Unless there is a complete reversal in the trend, this 41-year-old republic will have for the first time a vice president with political different from the chief executive's.

With 26 per cent of the estimated 4 1/2 million votes counted, Garcia, the Nacionalista party standard bearer, held a 150,000-vote lead over sugar magnate Jose Yulo, a Liberal.

Macapagal, Liberal who spent his boyhood in a grass hut, was leading his Nacionalista opponent, House Speaker Jose Laurel Jr., by a thumping 282,000-vote margin.

The latest presidential returns showed: Garcia, 504,741; Yulo, 353,188; Manuel P. Manahan, Progressive, 284,793; Sen. Claro M. Recto, Nationalist-Citizens, 116,303; Antonio Quirino, independent Liberal, 22,522.

Hope Grows For Meeting To Continue

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Hope of averting the threatened breakdown in East-West arms talks grew today as the Western powers decided to give ground to Soviet demands for enlargement of the U. N. Disarmament Commission.

The United States, Britain and France agreed privately to relax their stand against changing the makeup of the 12-nation commission. Previously word spread that the Russians were willing to modify their demand that all 82 U.N. members take part in the negotiations.

Informal sources said the Big Three had not settled on how many members should be added to the commission. Reportedly they were thinking of five to seven.

These informants said a resolution reflecting the Western position may be put before the General Assembly when it takes up the disarmament question tomorrow.

It was not clear whether this resolution would be independent of India's proposal to add 10 nations to the commission, including representatives from East and West Europe, Asia, Africa and Latin America.

Russia has not indicated how large an increase she would settle for. But she made plain she will not sit in on any talks with the present five-nation subcommittee, where the other four members—the Western Big Three and Canada—are lined up against her.

Argyle Club Members Back Science for Cultural Reasons

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Down here in one of America's oldest cities, the mink-and-millions society set possesses a fresh outlook—that basic scientific research should be financially supported for cultural reasons, just like the opera and symphony orchestra.

And from this outlook stems one of the nation's exclusive clubs—the Argyle.

To be a member requires an impeccable social background. Possession of a few million dollars doesn't hurt.

The club members—about 400 mostly in San Antonio but scattered throughout the nation—are responsible for contributions ranging up to $150,000 a year for basic research. The members themselves donate around $50,000 and campaign for the remainder.

Dr. Harold Vagborg, president of the Southwest Research Center, told a gathering of the elite during the weekend: "In some cities, the basic scientist is looked on as a curious person. Here in San Antonio he is recognized for the important cultural contribution he is making. This must be developed throughout the United States if we are to regain our leadership in the field of science. . . .

"Community appreciation is essential if we are to develop and keep basic research scientists for the future."

The particular part of the center being supported by the Argyle is the Southwest Foundation for Research and Education, dedicated to basic medical studies.

About 125 oil millionaires, ranchers, businessmen, financiers and their families braved a downpour during the weekend to see where their money is going. They saw exhibits telling of studies in heart and circulatory diseases, glands, cancer and other medical matters.

So far their money hasn't gone into buildings. The research labs now are housed in converted barns.

But they eventually will be moved into a modern structure. The money for it has been donated by Mrs. C. F. Urschel, a wealthy woman in her own right and the wife of the oilman who outwitted a gang several years ago in the famous Urschel kidnapping case. The federal government will provide matching funds.

the city limits, is an urban project calling for grading and variable width pavement. The remaining half mile extends from the city limits south to U.S. Route 60 and is for grading, a double 9 by 4 feet concrete culvert and 52-feet wide portland cement concrete pavement.

The U.S. Route 166 (City) project is in Springfield, Greene County, for installation of traffic signals at Broadway and at Grant Avenue on Commercial Street.

The U.S. Route 61 improvement is in New Madrid and Pemiscot counties, northeast of Portageville. It calls for widening of three bridge structures, one over Drainage Ditch 37, one over Ditch 18 and one over Portage Open Bay Ditch, along with grading, base and 24-feet asphaltic concrete surfacing totaling about 0.7 mile in length.

The interstate system project in the City of St. Louis is for installing a 181-foot long pedestrian overpass over the Ozark Expressway at 9th and Carroll Streets.

in Jefferson City. Sgt. Van Winkle and Chief Neighbors indicated he would be taken to Jefferson City for the test.

Police have been working on the "tips" for several days, but Jones was never traced until Tuesday morning when officers finally got a good description of him and learned he was a "hitch-hiker". Officer Appleman had gone to Missouri and Main to make a traffic check and also to check on a possible chance Jones might be on his way back to the base. He was rewarded almost immediately upon arriving at Missouri avenue.

After being questioned he was transferred from the City jail to "Big Four" in the county jail. Prosecuting Attorney Barriack stated the charges were filed in connection with the Kay's Cafe robbery. Other charges might be filed later, he indicated.

Jones reported his home is at Jackson, Michigan.

URGES WAY BE CLEARED FOR EQUIPPING NATO NAVIES WITH A-SUBS
PARIS (AP)—NATO's naval commander, U. S. Adm. Jerauld Wright, today urged that U. S. nuclear secrecy be modified to help equip all NATO navies with atomic submarines.

The admiral told the Atlantic Alliance's Advisory Assembly that arming the navies with A-subs should be given top priority.

He added that NATO countries could equip themselves without receiving U. S. built subs if Congress would amend the McMahon Act to make more nuclear know-how available.

Wright told a closed session of the Assembly that the Soviet Union's submarine fleet is three times as big as that of the United States and Allies combined.

The Russians are known to have about 500 submarines and the number is increasing by 75 to 100 a year.

The mission of allied submarines now is to try to knock out Soviet subs if there is a war, Wright said.

Traditional Games Dot Football Map

NEW YORK (AP)—Traditional games dot the college football map. But background means little in picking the winners. Getting the right backfield would be a much bigger help.

So, off we go:

Texas A&M over Rice: Bear Bryant's Aggies are No. 1 in the nation. Rice is only second best in the Southwest Conference.

Oklahoma over Notre Dame: In belief that the Sooners have recovered from their midseason slumps. You can see for yourself on your TV screen.

Auburn over Georgia: The Auburn defense is one of the best.

Ohio State over Iowa: In the past 10 years the team always has won in this crucial series. The Buckeyes do the entertaining this time and hope to clinch the Rose Bowl bid.

Michigan State over Minnesota: This could be closer than it looks if the Spartans spend too much time remembering their Notre Dame victory and if Bobby Cox is back to normal.

Tennessee over Mississippi: Everything is at stake here—the Sugar Bowl bid for a possible Southeastern Conference title. Mississippi hasn't won from Tennessee since 1948.

Army over Tulane: Bob Anderson to do some more galloping. The game has been switched to West Point.

Duke over Clemson: Clemson has Harvey White but Duke has too much of everything else.

Oregon over Southern California: By about a touchdown.

Texas Christian over Texas: TCU rested last week while Texas was being dumped out of the Cotton Bowl picture in a 6-6 draw with Baylor.

Skipping over the others in a hurry:

FRIDAY

Miami over Maryland (N)

Vaughan Devine Is New Manager For Cardinals

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Youthful Vaughan (Bing) Devine moves in as general manager of the St. Louis Cardinals and becomes possibly the only general manager in baseball who works on a month-to-month basis.

Devine is only 40 but he's been a Cardinal front office man for 18 years. His most recent job has been executive assistant to general manager Frank Lane.

Lane's last activity before resigning yesterday to become general manager of the Cleveland Indians was to recommend Devine as his successor.

August A. Busch, president and owner of the Cardinals, took the advice. He called a press conference and announced Devine's appointment three hours after Lane suddenly bowed out.

The new general manager's salary was said to be $30,000 a year.

Busch took the occasion to announce a new policy: from now on only the field manager will work under contract—a one-year contract—and the other members of the managerial team will be on a month-to-month basis.

Devine told reporters that will make no difference to him—it's the same way he's been working since he first joined the Cardinals as a publicity man in 1936.

He once aspired to be a major league baseball player and for a time pitched batting practice for the Cards.

Tigers Final Conference Game Tonight

By STAN JONES

The Tigers of Smith-Cotton High School will finish their 1957 conference football season Friday against the Kemper Military Academy Yellowjackets from Booneville. If the Tigers are victorious it will mean a three-way tie for first in the CEMO conference with Columbia and Jefferson City.

Smith-Cotton will finish its football year on Tuesday night with a game against Raytown. This game was originally canceled because both teams were hard hit by the flu.

This will be the final high school game for 12 Tigers, nine from the starting 11. Those playing their final game are: Dick Woodsmall, Ronald Dirck, Marshall Bryan, Ned Khede, Tommy Herrick, Dick Sklar, Edward Schwartz, Perry Fairfax, Bert Thomas, Arthur Bethke, Bill McDowell and Roger Gates.

The game is expected to be an easy victory for the Tigers who have a season record of four wins and four losses over the Yellowjackets, who stand at two wins and four losses. The two teams are evenly matched as to size, but it is the experience that makes the difference. Whether the Tigers will have the services of B. C. Poynter hasn't been decided yet, but it seems doubtful if he will play. Poynter was injured early in this season and has spent the remainder of this year recovering.

Kick-off time is 8 p.m. at Jennie Jaynes Stadium.

Frank Lane

Takes Reins

Of Indians

CLEVELAND (AP)—An explosive 61-year-old baseball executive with a reputation for shrewd trading is faced today with making pennant contenders of the Cleveland Indians—and fill spacious Municipal Stadium with fans who will pay to see them.

Frank Lane, appointed general manager of the Indians yesterday, arrived in Cleveland last night.

Lane left St. Louis and his job as Cardinals' general manager to succeed fired Hank Greenberg.

"Our first job," Lane said after he stepped off the plane, "is to find out what the team needs."

"I'm going to do everything and anything I can to help."

Lane said he wanted to get acquainted with the team and talk things over with Bobby Bragan, Tribe field manager, before commenting on any possible trades.

He did mention, however, that "from a distance" the Indians looked as if they needed help around second base. He said he talked with John McHale, general manager of the Detroit Tigers, by telephone in St. Louis yesterday. Shortstop Harvey Kuenn, who spent part of last season at third base for Detroit, was discussed.

"If I know Lane," Indians pitcher Ray Narleski said, "he'll stir things up a bit. Maybe it will do the ball club some good."

Lane said "that big Cleveland stadium appeals to me. So does the demonstrated enthusiasm of Cleveland people for baseball. They've showed it before and if I do my job properly they'll do it again."

The Indians dropped to sixth place last season after 10 years as a first division baseball team. Attendance fell from a major league record of 2,383,026 in 1948 to 722,256 during the past season.

Ex-Notre Dame Coach

Says Team Can Win

Game With Oklahoma

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—Frank Leahy, former football coach at Notre Dame, believes the Fighting Irish have the potential this season of beating any team on a given day—including Oklahoma this Saturday at Norman.

Leahy spoke at the Magic Empire Club dinner here last night. He praised Oklahoma and its coaching staff and said of the nation's No. 2 team:

"It is just coming into its own. Coach (Bud) Wilkinson always develops them late in the season."

Of last season's 40-0 beating inflicted by the Sooners on the Irish at South Bend, Leahy said, "it could have been 65-0."

Asked how Oklahoma, victorious in 47 straight games, would fare in Big 10 competition, the former Notre Dame coach said:

"Oklahoma might not have as good a record but it definitely would be up among the top three every year in either the Big 10 or the Southwest Conference. I know Bud and his staff would prefer a tougher schedule."

Jim Croy Gets Deer

Jim Croy, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. V. Croy, 1709 East Seventh, bagged an 11-point buck about 10 a.m. Saturday, south of Stover. The deer weighed 200 pounds.

Western Auto Rolls Over T&C 70 to 19

Western Auto clobbered Town and Country in a basketball trial Tuesday night at the Horace Mann Gym, by a score of 70 to 19. The high scorers for Western Auto were Jim Fall with 22 points and John Seifner with 21 points. For Town and Country it was Ken Shanahan with a high score of 7 points.

The Town and Country team was not up to par because a number of the players of the team were not able to compete.

Another Three

Weeks Needed

For Planning

NEW YORK (AP)—The currently indisposed Pacific Coast League won't know what shape it will be in next season for another three weeks—if then.

That's what the second meeting called by Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick to discuss the situation achieved here yesterday.

Frick said the group of major and minor league officials, their original suggestions in the problem vetoed by the Texas League and American Assn., had put together a new plan for the realignment of the PCL, but he doubted there would be a final decision until next month's winter meetings.

He refused to reveal either plan or to identify the leagues which would be affected by PCL franchise shifts caused by the invasion of the National League's San Francisco Giants and Los Angeles Dodgers.

The plan designed at yesterday's meeting now will be submitted to the leagues and clubs involved.

Frick said he hoped "we can work out something equitable without drafting." In answer to a question, the commissioner said he could not say whether a merger of the PCL and the American Assn. was discussed yesterday.

Reports earlier had the PCL, forced to find new homes for its Los Angeles, San Francisco and Hollywood franchises, hoping to add Denver, Dallas and Phoenix, with Houston entering the AA as a replacement for Denver.

Now, should a drafting process be necessary, the PCL would have to give up thoughts of Denver, apparently, and do its business with the Texas League. Under baseball law, no minor circuit may draft a lower league unless a higher league already had drafted territory in the original league. The PCL and American Assn. are considered on equal terms. The Texas League is Class AA.

Curious will slide on the rod faster if you put a small piece of adhesive tape over the end of the rod.

Jackson Has Crossroads Bout Tonight

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Boxing followers discover tonight if Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson has dropped from heavyweight title challenger to trial horse within the short space of two fights.

Rebel Leader Asks Strike Against Batista

HAVANA (U)—Rebel leader Fidel Castro is appealing for a "general revolutionary strike" against President Fulgencio Batista. A bulletin from Castro's headquarters in the mountains of Oriente Province calls for a nationwide walkout by workers and peasants about Dec. 15. That is the approximate date for starting the harvesting of sugar cane. The bulletin, clandestinely circulated among Castro's supporters and sympathizers in Havana, declares "there will be no sugar harvest" while Batista rules. Sugar is the keystone of Cuba's prosperity. Castro's bulletin urged the estimated 400,000 cane-field workers to touch off a move he hopes will snowball into general strikes throughout the nation and thus "overthrow the tyranny and dictatorship" of President Batista. The government seems confident that it can swiftly smash any attempt to start general strikes and that the harvest will proceed unhindered.

Joan Tabor Had System

By JAMES BACON
HOLLYWOOD (U)—Joan Tabor, a luscious red-haired, green-eyed doll, has only been in town a few weeks but she could give lessons on how to become a movie star. She has never made a movie—but she will. Unknown outside of Chicago, where she worked as a TV actress, or her home town of Sioux Falls, S.D., Joan, in a few weeks, has most studios in town interested in her. Here's how she did it—and, girls, don't try it, unless you've got Joan's equipment. First thing she did was hire a press agent. She liked the way Anita Ekberg's career zoomed so she called first on Miss Ekberg's press agent. He took one look and took her on a percentage deal. Next she sought an agent. She liked the way Jayne Mansfield's career went, in a few months from $150 a week to $75,000 a picture. So Joan met William Shiffrin, who handles Miss Mansfield. Shiffrin

If I don't make it, then I'll go back to Chicago and make my living modeling or selling ladies' blouses in Marshall Field's basement. My daughter is my main career."

NLRB Rules 'Hot Cargo' Clauses Break Taft-Hartley Law

WASHINGTON (AP)—The National Labor Relations Board has ruled that "hot cargo" contracts between unions and common carriers violate the Taft-Hartley law.

The question of the validity of such agreements has been before the board previously, but yesterday's 3-2 decision marked the first time the NLRB has declared them unlawful. The board ruled the contracts valid and enforceable in 1949.

A hot cargo clause generally provides that employees may refuse to handle goods which the union brands as "unfair."

The ruling yesterday concerned Teamsters Union Local 728 in Atlanta, Ga. The board found that the local violated Taft-Hartley's ban on secondary boycotts by telling its members they could refuse to handle shipments from the Genuine Parts Co. of Atlanta.

The hot cargo clauses have been included in Teamster contracts with many truck firms.

The first pep rally of the 1957-58 school year was held Tuesday afternoon in the local gymnasium in preparation for the Gremlin's game against the Cole Camp Blue Birds.

Father Pelletier, volleyball coach and director of athletics, welcomed the students and turned the program over to John Buckley, senior class president. Rosalee Mergen, Roseann Mergen, Alinda Corp, Mary Louise Vickers and Ralph Vickers put on a skit about how the Gremlins would beat Cole Camp. In between acts Marie Springer, Tom Moser, Dave Curry, Janet Harper and John Buckley gave humorous commercials.

Captain Ruth Ann Bahner of the volleyball team and captain Don Ressel of the basketball team then gave a short talk on how they thought their team would fare during the coming season. The cheerleaders then responded with cheers of victory and the first pep rally of the year came to a close.

That evening Sacred Heart lost its first Conference game of the season to an aroused Cole Camp team. The girls absorbed a 41 to 14 loss while the boys were beaten 66 to 37.

Sacred Heart swung into action Friday night for its second conference game against Warsaw. The game was played at Warsaw with the Gremlins taking a sweep of both the basketball and volleyball games. The girls took a 31 to 13 decision with the boys winning a 69 to 67 thriller. The victories were the first of the season for the Gremlins.

The speech contest which was postponed because of the flu was held Thursday, Oct. 31. Mary Beth Staley took first place with her oration of "Why?" Pat Sparks finished second with his humorous reading, "St. George and the Dragonette."

Members of the Bell Telephone Co. showed the students a film Wednesday, Oct. 31, instructing them on the use of the phone with its new dial system and the proper way of operating the new phone.

Members of the world geography class were given a special treat the following Wednesday afternoon, when they saw films on India, New York and Puerto Rico. The class is under the direction of Sister M. Everlids.

The juniors held a class meeting Wednesday afternoon with president John Boul presiding. A discussion on how to raise money for the Junior-Senior prom was held. A committee was appointed to check the possibilities of a dance, bake sale, chili supper, or a card party. The committee will give their report next Wednesday. Plans were also made for the next pep assembly which will be held by the juniors.

The speech will be carried live at 10:30 p. m. EST, by NBC-TV and all four major radio networks. ABC and CBS television will carry the address from film at 11:15 p. m.

Eisenhower will speak at Municipal Auditorium in connection with Oklahoma's "Arrows to Atoms" 50th anniversary of statehood. He plans to start back to Washington by plane immediately after the speech.

The President's drive to overtake and surpass Russia in development of missiles and other weapons of the future, started formally last Thursday night. In a nationwide TV address then he named James R. Killian, president of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, as a special assistant to coordinate the drive.

He also set forth several other steps in a program of immediate action designed to put the United States ahead of the Soviet Union.

At the same time he mentioned briefly certain long-range requirements which he said he would discuss in more detail tonight.

In his talk last week he said: "According to my scientific friends, one of our greatest, and the most glaring, deficiencies is the failure of us in this country to give high enough priority to scientific education and to the place of science in our national life."

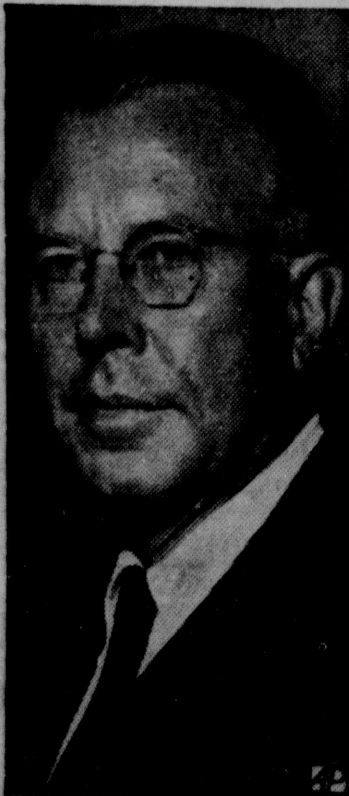

Wet, Mild Weather Forecast for Nation

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

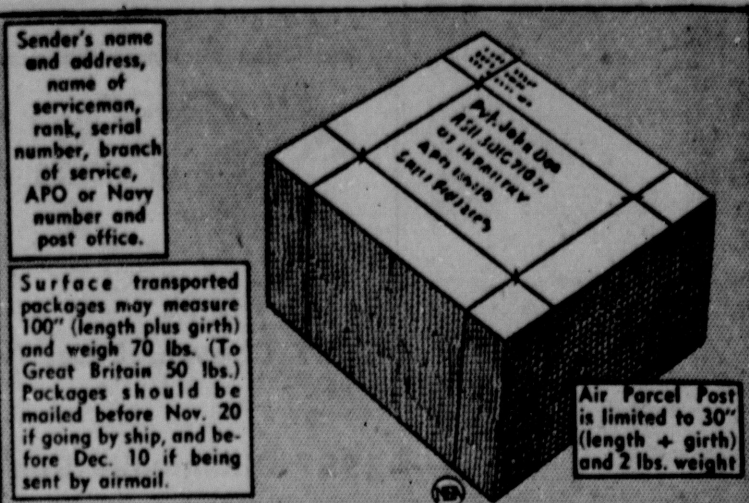

Wet and fairly mild weather was the outlook for broad areas of the country today.

Rain continued to drench the far northwestern part of the country from northern California northward into Washington. Showers, with snow at higher elevations, sprinkled the northern Plateau and in the Rockies. Snow falls in some areas measured about an inch.

Southerly winds carried moist air from the Gulf of Mexico northward through the Mississippi Valley and adjacent areas. Rain fell in sections as far north as southern Minnesota and Wisconsin.

Festive and informal this attractive Thanksgiving buffet table takes its color cues from the frosty green melamine dinnerware. Centerpiece is a wicker basket set on pale green felt runner and filled with fruit, berries and vegetables. Bringing the Thanksgiving touch to a children's dinner table is a prim Pilgrim couple (inset), made from paper-wrapped milk cartons, standing in a harvest of bright-red apples.

Give Children a Thanksgiving Table, Center It With Miniature Pilgrims

By KAY SHERWOOD
NEA Staff Writer

Festive simplicity is the watchword of the modern hostess planning her Thanksgiving celebration. The nostalgic picture of the elaborate feast with all the kinfolk gathered around the banquet table just doesn't jibe with modern living.

In the first place, who has a banquet table or the space to put it? With families widely scattered, the gathering today often includes close friends and their children.

The spirit of the occasion is as graciously expressed in a simple setting with a menu planned in consideration of the hostess-cook's time, and the determination of the weight-watchers in most households.

One old-fashioned custom to which I subscribe, however, is the separate table for the youngsters. Appoint one of the older children hostess for the table and she can help serve plates, check up on milk drinkers and suggest games to be played while the adults linger over coffee.

Add a festive air with a few decorations. This year on their table I'm using a Pilgrim couple made from milk cartons and paper. These can be made anytime by you or the older children. All you do is tape black paper around a milk carton to form the body; cut out arms from black paper and hands from pink paper and tape onto body. Pink paper around a cardboard tube and decorated with paint makes the face. Ruffled collars and cuffs are cut from white paper baking cups; a strip of tissue paper makes the lady's cape. The Pilgrims will be surrounded by ribbon-tied apples for favors.

If you plan buffet service, you don't have to forego a decorative centerpiece but arrange it to complement your dinnerware and the table size. One effective and simple arrangement I saw recently is well suited to a small table. This was an arrangement of seasonal fruits and small gourds and vegetables in a pretty wicker basket set on a narrow tapered runner of green felt.

The pale green felt repeated the frosty green of melamine dinnerware and the centerpiece blended well with the informal service. Because felt comes in so many clear colors this idea is easily adaptable.

LONDON (AP)—Author W. Somerset Maugham said today he is having all his letters destroyed to keep them from being published after his death.

"I regard my letters as my personal affair," said the writer, who will be 84 on Jan. 25. "I cannot see that their publication after my death will serve any useful purpose."

Maugham said he feels "perfectly well, but when one is my age one becomes, perhaps, more realistic about the inevitable."

The writer smiled at the suggestion that he fears some old love letters might come to light.

Satellites May Help Solve Mystery of 'Flying Saucers'

DID SOMEBODY ELSE get there first? This photo of "strange objects" dates back to 1952 when it was snapped by a Coast Guard photographer at Salem, Mass.

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON — Man's invasion of space should produce a solution to the intriguing mystery of the nature of unidentified flying objects—the UFOs which have turned up again in the wake of Russia's two Sputniks.

This is the belief of the former head of the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency, Adm. R. H. Hillenkoetter.

"Satellite and space exploration programs should give us new, valuable information on UFOs, affording definite evidence as to their reality," he says, "and this will result because of a tremendous increase in observation of the sky by radar and telescope tracking systems and by naked-eye observations." He adds:

"This will certainly increase the number of detailed UFO reports from trained observers — reports including accurate measurement of courses, speeds, altitudes, maneuvers and sizes and shapes of such objects."

Since leaving as boss of the nation's top-level intelligence agency, the admiral has made himself one of the best-informed flying saucer experts in the country. He is a member of the board of governors of the newly-created National Investigation Committee on Aerial Phenomena, with headquarters here.

NICAP's members include some top scientists and prominent citizens attempting to find scientific answers to the saucer mystery. Members of the board also include J. B. Hartranft, president of the Aircraft Owners and Pilots Association; Dr. Charles A. Maney, professor of astrophysics at DePaul University, and Rev. Leon C. Le Van of Pittsburgh.

They all agree with Adm. Hillenkoetter that the advent of space exploration could solve the saucer secrets. And Russia's Sputnik has already greatly increased reports of saucer sightings.

Retired Marine Maj. Donald E. Keyhoe, NICAP director and well-known author on the subject of saucers, reports:

"There are already increases in authentic UFO reports since the Russian satellite drew public attention to the skies. Also, spotters of Operation Moonwatch, the U. S. satellite tracking network, have sighted a number of UFOs during tracking practice over wide areas."

For example, several days after Sputnik's appearance an Air Force jet pilot flying 42,000 feet over Washington at night reported to Moonwatch control center officers here that he saw a disk-shaped object flashing across the sky. Moonwatch officials quickly determined that it could not have been Sputnik.

The relay of the pilot's message was not fast enough to try to track whatever the object was. But the reporting procedure is being speeded up so that tracking any reported UFO will be possible in the future.

"The army of amateur and professional astronomers with all kinds of telescopes, which is organized under Moonwatch, is an ideal organization for checking saucer reports," a spokesman says.

AF Maj. Dewey Fournet, previously the Pentagon project officer on UFOs and now a member of the NICAP board, looks to the future when U. S. satellites will be in the skies in great numbers. He says:

"U. S. satellites — especially the larger ones — can be instrumented to detect or photograph UFOs with-

State Rabbit Associations Hold Meeting

Members of two Rabbit Breeders organizations met in Sedalia Sunday in the Administration Building of the Missouri State Fair during which it was voted to merge into one organization. The annual convention and show was voted to be held in conjunction with the Missouri State Fair Rabbit Show during fair week.

The two organizations were the Missouri State Rabbit Breeders' Association, Inc., and the Missouri State Rabbit Breeders' Association. They will continue under the name of the first organization which is incorporated. The merger gives the organization a membership of more than 200.

More than 20 representatives of the two groups attended the meeting here. It was agreed the annual election of officers would be held in January and conducted through ballots.

Bill Herdinger, Kansas City, presided over the meeting and is the acting chairman while H. O. Stevens of Springfield is the acting secretary.

Attending the meeting was Harry Coles, national representative of the American Rabbit Breeders' Association, and Henry Dougan, St. Joseph, who is the superintendent of the Missouri State Fair rabbit show. Dougan has served as the superintendent of the fair show for the past nine years.

M. C. "Colie" Ervin, secretary of the Fair, invited the organization to hold their meetings and conventions in Sedalia, and it was then decided to hold the convention-show here during the fair.

The show will be held in the building just east of the Agriculture Building, known as the Rabbit and Poultry Building.

The organizations, in merging, announced they are interested in the promotion of breeding and raising of purebred animals, to promote publicity of eating rabbit meat, promotion of raising rabbits both as a hobby and for commercial use.

A Call to Action

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

The urgent tone which seemed to be lacking in America's initial responses to recent major Soviet missile-satellite gains has now been supplied by President Eisenhower. But setting the proper mood for the hard job ahead is clearly only a beginning.

Wide approval has been voiced of his appointment of Dr. James R. Killian Jr., president of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, to coordinate and speed the country's scientific defense program, with particular stress on long-range missiles.

But the proof will be in the pudding, in the evidence yet to be had that the United States has in fact made critical advance in missiles and satellites and thus has closed the dangerous gap opened by the Soviet Union.

In many ways Mr. Eisenhower showed his deep concern for what Russia has done and his recognition that this demands of all of us, from the top down, a new spirit of effort and dedication if we are to preserve the free way of life.

The President hit the proper point when he said Soviet launchings of earth satellites were most significant because of what they implied as to Russia's capabilities in rocket propulsion.

Perhaps he would have done well also to mention Soviet claims of having successfully dispatched and put on target a long-range ballistic missile. Whether or not we accept the validity of this claim, we need to take open note of it. Too often we have underrated Soviet capacity to achieve advances of great import.

In his speech Mr. Eisenhower wisely sought to extend reassurance to all free peoples that despite Soviet gains we still retain for ourselves a devastating capacity to inflict nuclear ruin on any potential enemy.

The President recited many major defense developments in his catalogue of reassurance, but put especial weight on our nuclear strength. He said scientists tell him we still are well ahead in both quality and quantity of weapons.

And he added we have the planes to deliver this nuclear force against crucial centers of resistance anywhere on earth.

Some may feel that in offering this comfort the President opened the way for a return in America to the complacency which plagued us before Sputnik I began circling the globe.

But on balance what Mr. Eisenhower told Americans and their friends abroad suggested we know now, if we did not before, that any further dalliance on our part could be fatal to freedom everywhere.

His call for action on all fronts, for stern new effort to meet the changed world, deserves the fullhearted response of all who prize liberty.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Several Factors Brought Army Order

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — There were some interesting backstage factors behind the Defense Department's decision to launch one of the six Army satellites which have been gathering dust in a Huntsville, Ala., warehouse for about six months.

Factor No. 1 was new Defense Secretary Neil McElroy, who is faster, more venturesome than good old Charlie Wilson. McElroy is also on the spot and wants to get off. He made the decision to let the Army fire, despite the earlier decision in favor of the Navy.

Factor No. 2 was this column of Oct. 25, revealing for the first time that "The Army has six satellites in a warehouse in Huntsville, Ala., all ready to launch. They could have been launched before the Sputnik, thus keeping the U.S.A. ahead of the USSR and preventing one of the greatest psychological defeats the United States ever suffered."

Factor No. 3 was Dr. Wernher Von Braun, the Army missile expert, formerly operating for Hitler, now an American citizen, who has been conferring quietly with Navy expert John P. Hagen, in charge of satellite "Project Vanguard." Their quiet cooperation led to Navy acquiescence in giving the Army first crack at catching up with Russia.

Budget Bureau Veto
One point readers have questioned me about is a paragraph in the Oct. 25 column which read: "About three months ago, the Budget Bureau, which operates directly under the White House, actually sent auditors to Huntsville to make sure the Army did not spend a nickel on the satellite program."

This sounds incredible. It's not surprising some readers wonder how this could have happened. The answer is that the Budget Bureau learned that the Army had these satellites and figured it was trying to pull a "stunt" in order to prove that it had the best missile team in the armed services.

Probably the Budget Bureau's suspicions were justified, because this was just around the time of the Col. Nickerson court-martial. Nickerson had written a secret memo, a copy of which reached this writer's hands, claiming that the Army was ahead of the Air Force in missile production and that Secretary of Defense Wilson was in serious error in stopping further Army work on an IRBM, or intermediate range ballistic missile.

Unquestionably the Army would have gone ahead and fired its earth satellite, thus beating Russia, in order to defend Col. Nickerson and prove the efficiency of Army missile experts. However, when the Budget Bureau, learning of this, sent auditors to Huntsville, they gave flat orders that not a nickel was to be spent on launching a satellite. It would have taken several thousand dollars to transport the satellite to Cape Canaveral, Fla., and launch it. Furthermore, an order is an order, especially when it comes from an arm of the White House.

So the Army missiles remained in their Alabama warehouse while Sputnik beat us into outer space.

White House Ghost Writers

President Eisenhower's solemn but confident television speech the other night gave no hint of the frantic search his special writers conducted.

Think It Through

—By E. F. Hutton

HUCKLEBERRY FINN—We've given the raspberry to Nazis and Communies who burn books they don't like. Political bullies and religious zealots have burned books for hundreds of years. You'd think we'd outgrow such childish fury. But no, we've begun to do the same, not by burning, but by banning.

Mark Twain's great masterpiece, "Huckleberry Finn," has been de-listed for elementary and junior high school kids by the tall domes of New York City schools.

Zealots complained that Huck's friend, Jim, a negro boy, although the finest character in the novel, was sometimes referred to in language not used today.

Must every book please everybody? Southerners still feel that "UNCLE TOM'S CABIN" treated the Old South very shabbily.

The British and their dependents here don't like histories that tell that the Red Coats taught the Indians to scalp our forefathers.

The NEW TESTAMENT portrays eleven faithful Jews and one who was a traitor. Hasn't every race produced traitors? Shall we ban the BIBLE?

How far are we going? The intermarriage of whites and blacks is forbidden in 25 states; 5 forbid whites and Mongolians; and 4 forbid whites and Indians.

Will the whites, blacks, Mongolians and Indians, who yearn to intermarry, get the Warren Supreme Court to declare these laws unconstitutional?

ed for some rocket-missile achievement which would make this speech more reassuring.

Harried aides scurried between the Pentagon and the White House with secret papers describing what the three services are doing in the missile field. These were dumped on the desk of propaganda specialist Arthur Larson, architect of "Modern Republicanism," recently pulled into the White House from the U. S. Information Agency.

Inside the Pentagon, Assistant Defense Secretary Murray Snyder, formerly No. 2 man for White House public relations, directed the search. He called in representatives of the Army, Navy, and Air Force and ordered them to produce "scientific accomplishments" for the President's speech.

"We must have something definite and significant," Snyder urged.

The three services submitted papers that told about achievements already publicized. Snyder showed most interest in the Air Force's "Operation Farside," which shot a research rocket into outer space, and tried to goad the Air Force into exaggerating its achievements.

Though the Air Force lost contact with the missile after 2800 miles, Snyder wanted the Air Force to claim the rocket had shot beyond 4,000 miles. Air Force spokesmen explained the rocket may have passed the 4,000-mile mark and may still be travelling in outer space, but warned that the President would discredit himself with scientists if he boasted that the rocket went beyond the proven altitude of 2800 miles. Snyder disregarded this advice and the President mentioned the 4,000-mile figure in his television address.

Snyder also pounced upon the Jupiter Nose Cone which the Army had recovered after a 3300-mile trip that went 680 miles into outer space. The Army had intended to exhibit the Nose Cone at the Army Association Convention in Washington earlier this month, but Snyder ordered the Nose Cone held for Ike to unveil on television.

Missile Merry-Go-Round

The Army satellites at Huntsville are projectile-shaped, and for that reason nicknamed "Baseball Bats." They contain telemetering equipment and transmitters, thus can be tracked, like the Sputnik. They are nowhere as big as either Sputnik, varying in size from about 15 to 25 pounds. Sputnik II weighs half a ton. It will take four weeks to get the Huntsville satellites re-tested, re-checked, transported to Cape Canaveral and launched. They will be boosted into the air by the Jupiter C, the ICBM on which the Army was ordered to stop work. The Jupiter C is a Redstone missile plus Loki missile plus Loki clusters. Two Jupiter C's have been fired, both successfully. The second, which dropped a letter on the Air Force, to show how far ahead the Army was in guided missiles, is the Jupiter whose Nose Cone was recaptured and which Eisenhower showed on TV.

Atomic Age Garbage

The Irene Mae is a small 65 foot cargo ship operating out of Boston Harbor which is given wide berth when she heads out to sea. Her task is to dump waste radio-active material far enough out in the ocean to prevent any contamination on shore.

Cross Roads Marine is the name of the company which owns and operates the Irene Mae. It provides a nation-wide service and with the use of three trucks and two barges, cargo is collected from coast to coast. Many collections are made from colleges and universities as well as from research industries, where there is much radio active waste material.

Cross Roads Marine is licensed by the Atomic Energy Commission and so far scientists are in agreement that at the present time the world's oceans have the capacity to absorb radio active material without harm to human and marine life.

All radio active waste is stored in special steel pails and drums by the user and then picked up by Cross Roads Marine trucks.

This hot garbage disposal company is a by-product business which has sprung up as a necessity in the atomic age. No doubt there will be similar companies in other parts of the country before very long where there is an ocean or lake big enough to absorb the waste material. But the Irene Mae is the first to make the one-way hot cargo trip.

Retirement Should Be Given Advance Thought

By Edwin P. Jordan, M.D.

Although everyone grows older at the same rate of speed, the signs of advancing years generally appear gradually, unequally and differ from person to person.

Some activities, for example, which come easily at 18 are impossible or unwise at 30. Others which can be performed at 30 are undesirable at 50.

It seems to me that there are two aspects of aging which everyone should consider. One is the recognition of physical changes and the need to adjust to them in daily living. The other is the conscious preparation for certain changes in living pattern in the later years.

From the physical point of view, age brings some slowing of many functions of the body and a lessened ability for some of the body tissues and functions to withstand stress.

For example, the muscles, including the heart muscle, cannot stand as much strain in later years as they did earlier. Therefore, it is foolish to take as strenuous exercise as was possible in youth.

"Hello, Roger," said someone to the little boy whose married sister had a new baby.

Most of the congregation of the Epworth Methodist Church call their pastor "Preach."

A small boy who is very fond of "Preach" was taken to church on Sunday morning and insisted on talking.

The minister was preaching his sermon and the little boy's mother tried to hush him up.

"You must not talk in church," she whispered to him.

"Preach talk—I talk—" the little boy informed her loudly and went on talking.—H. L.

IT WAS THE last day of the month so the first grade teacher told her small pupils that when their mother tore the sheet off the calendar the next day to bring it to school with them. It was her plan to teach them numbers with the calendar sheets.

The next day a little girl came in with a big bundle and the teacher was curious as to what she had but since they have a little share program she thought Kathryn had brought something to share with the other children.

"What do you have in your package, Kathryn?" she asked.

The child looked at her in astonishment that she should ask her such a question. "Why," she said, "you told us to bring a sheet today and I brought one." It was the only kind of sheet she knew anything about — a bed sheet. H.L.

adjustment of varying degrees to these changes is needed. It is also characteristic for the memory to weaken, particularly memory for recent events. Many older people show this by repeating stories to the same audience simply because they do not remember that they did this before.

Assuming that one lives long enough, the older years bring changes to everyone. Mothers who have been busy with the varied problems of their children are inevitably relieved of this time-consuming task. Some planning on what they will do when this time comes in order to occupy themselves is in order.

Men, too, generally face the prospect of change in their habits of work and play. Retirement can be a welcome relief from heavy duties or it can be a blow which some men find hard to overcome.

It is now generally believed that more thought should be given retirement in advance. There are many books and pamphlets, most of which can be found in the nearest public library, which should prove of great assistance if consulted years before expected retirement.

Industries and physicians interested in public health have taken an increasing interest in this subject also. For example, the National Assn. for Mental Health has published a series of six letters addressed to employed people from 50-60.

The simple matter of growing older is so inevitable that it should be taken philosophically. Such drawbacks as it does have can be lessened by careful planning and better understanding of some of the advantages which it also can offer.

Thinking It Over

By Robert L. Diefenbacher, D.D.

White stripes are often painted on the edges of steps in public buildings. These warning lines aid people in seeing each individual step and help to avoid stumbling downstairs. Many a person has been injured when he has not seen the last step, or the darkened step which looked so much like another step.

Such simple aids are developed at great expense in our country where we are safely conscious. Papers and magazines devote much space to the need of following codes of safe practices.

Yet in the spiritual realm we stumble through many darkened byways without a glance toward heaven. We commit errors and sins without so much as a regret. We do little to help others to avoid the pitfalls into which we have fallen. "Remember, the soul you're out to save may be your own."

Getting Along With People May Help Win Next War

By Joseph A. Dear

OF OUR Washington Bureau
PEARL HARBOR, HAWAII—Admiral Felix Stump, a straight talking old Navy type who runs the show out here, figures you can fight a conventional war with atomic weapons.

Moreover, he figures we should use atomic weapons if the Reds embark on new aggressive adventures, because he is convinced we can't afford to lose any more local wars to the Communists.

Admiral Arleigh Burke, Chief of Naval Operations, seems to be thinking along the same lines. Burke, who has just visited our allies in the Western Pacific, favors fast punishment of any aggressor.

Both Burke and Stump discount the chances of all out nuclear war apparently on the theory that Russia knows it would be "wiped out." But both fear nibbling actions. Also, the Navy high command is fearful of revolutionary coups.

In some areas of Asia, local Communists, perhaps with the support of anti-government groups, might be able to seize power before we could respond. The most critical areas, according to intelligence reports, are Laos, Cambodia, and Indonesia.

Laos and Cambodia were part of Indo China. Both are strategically important because of their geographic location. The borders of all the nations of Southeast Asia touch on those of Laos, for example.

Conditions in Indonesia verge on the chaotic. The Navy is inclined to view the situation there with more alarm than the State Department. But a better reading may be made when the Russians send a squadron from their Pacific Fleet to Indonesia on a good will visit. Navy sources predict an enthusiastic reception.

The Russian Pacific Fleet, incidentally, is much more in evidence than it was a few years ago. According to authoritative estimates the Russians have in the Pacific: six cruisers, 70 destroyers of all types, 95 submarines, and a large mine force.

About 25 of the 95 Russian subs are first line, long range vessels. (We have about 50 subs in the Pacific area. All are first line, long range types.) The Russians may have atomic powered subs; reports are conflicting.

Numerical comparisons between

Russian and American naval force don't mean much. The Russian operate on interior lines, and the naval effort is intended to defeat these lines. (That's one reason the Russians have no carriers.)

Russian subs do pose a threat to our sea lanes. Our subs pose threat to theirs, and theirs are important because substantial supplies in ships reach that portion of Russia bordering on the Pacific. In this connection, it is interesting to note that our long range nuclear sea attack capability is probably much greater than Russia's, though her submarine fleet is numerically superior to ours.

Our Navy is properly concerned about the growing sea power of Russia. But it is fair to say that none of our fellows has any doubt about our ability to cope with the military situation. The Navy sure it could take care of the Russian Fleet if it came to that. The Navy is equally sure that it could strike hard if the Reds launched an overt attack in Southeast Asia. In fact, the Navy is convinced it could act with more effect than any other service.

On the people to people level, though, it's a different story. Navy types know there's more to this business than fighting successfully after war begins. The war fellows comport themselves now has an impact on our allies, and even on the people of Asian nations that are not all with us.

Admiral Stump makes quite issue of this. He is very much inclined toward officers and men who make an effort to get on with the people. Stump recalls that master sergeant on Formosa as neighbors two generals of Nationalist Army. The sergeant makes more than both. Stump says this sergeant gets on fine. But notes that it's easy to be unpopular when you can flaunt more money than the other fellow. And doesn't want any one in his command to do that ever.

He points with favor to a man who decided to live as the Chinese did. This chap learned the language, met the people, and got on with them.

If more Americans made effort the major did, maybe we can hold our own in the Pacific without fighting a conventional war with atomic weapons. At least that's the way Stump appears to see the problem.

With Moira Davidson, Dwight Towers, 33, discussed his family in West Mystic, Conn.—Sharon and the two children whose cherished portraits he kept in his quarters aboard the submarine USS SCORPION.

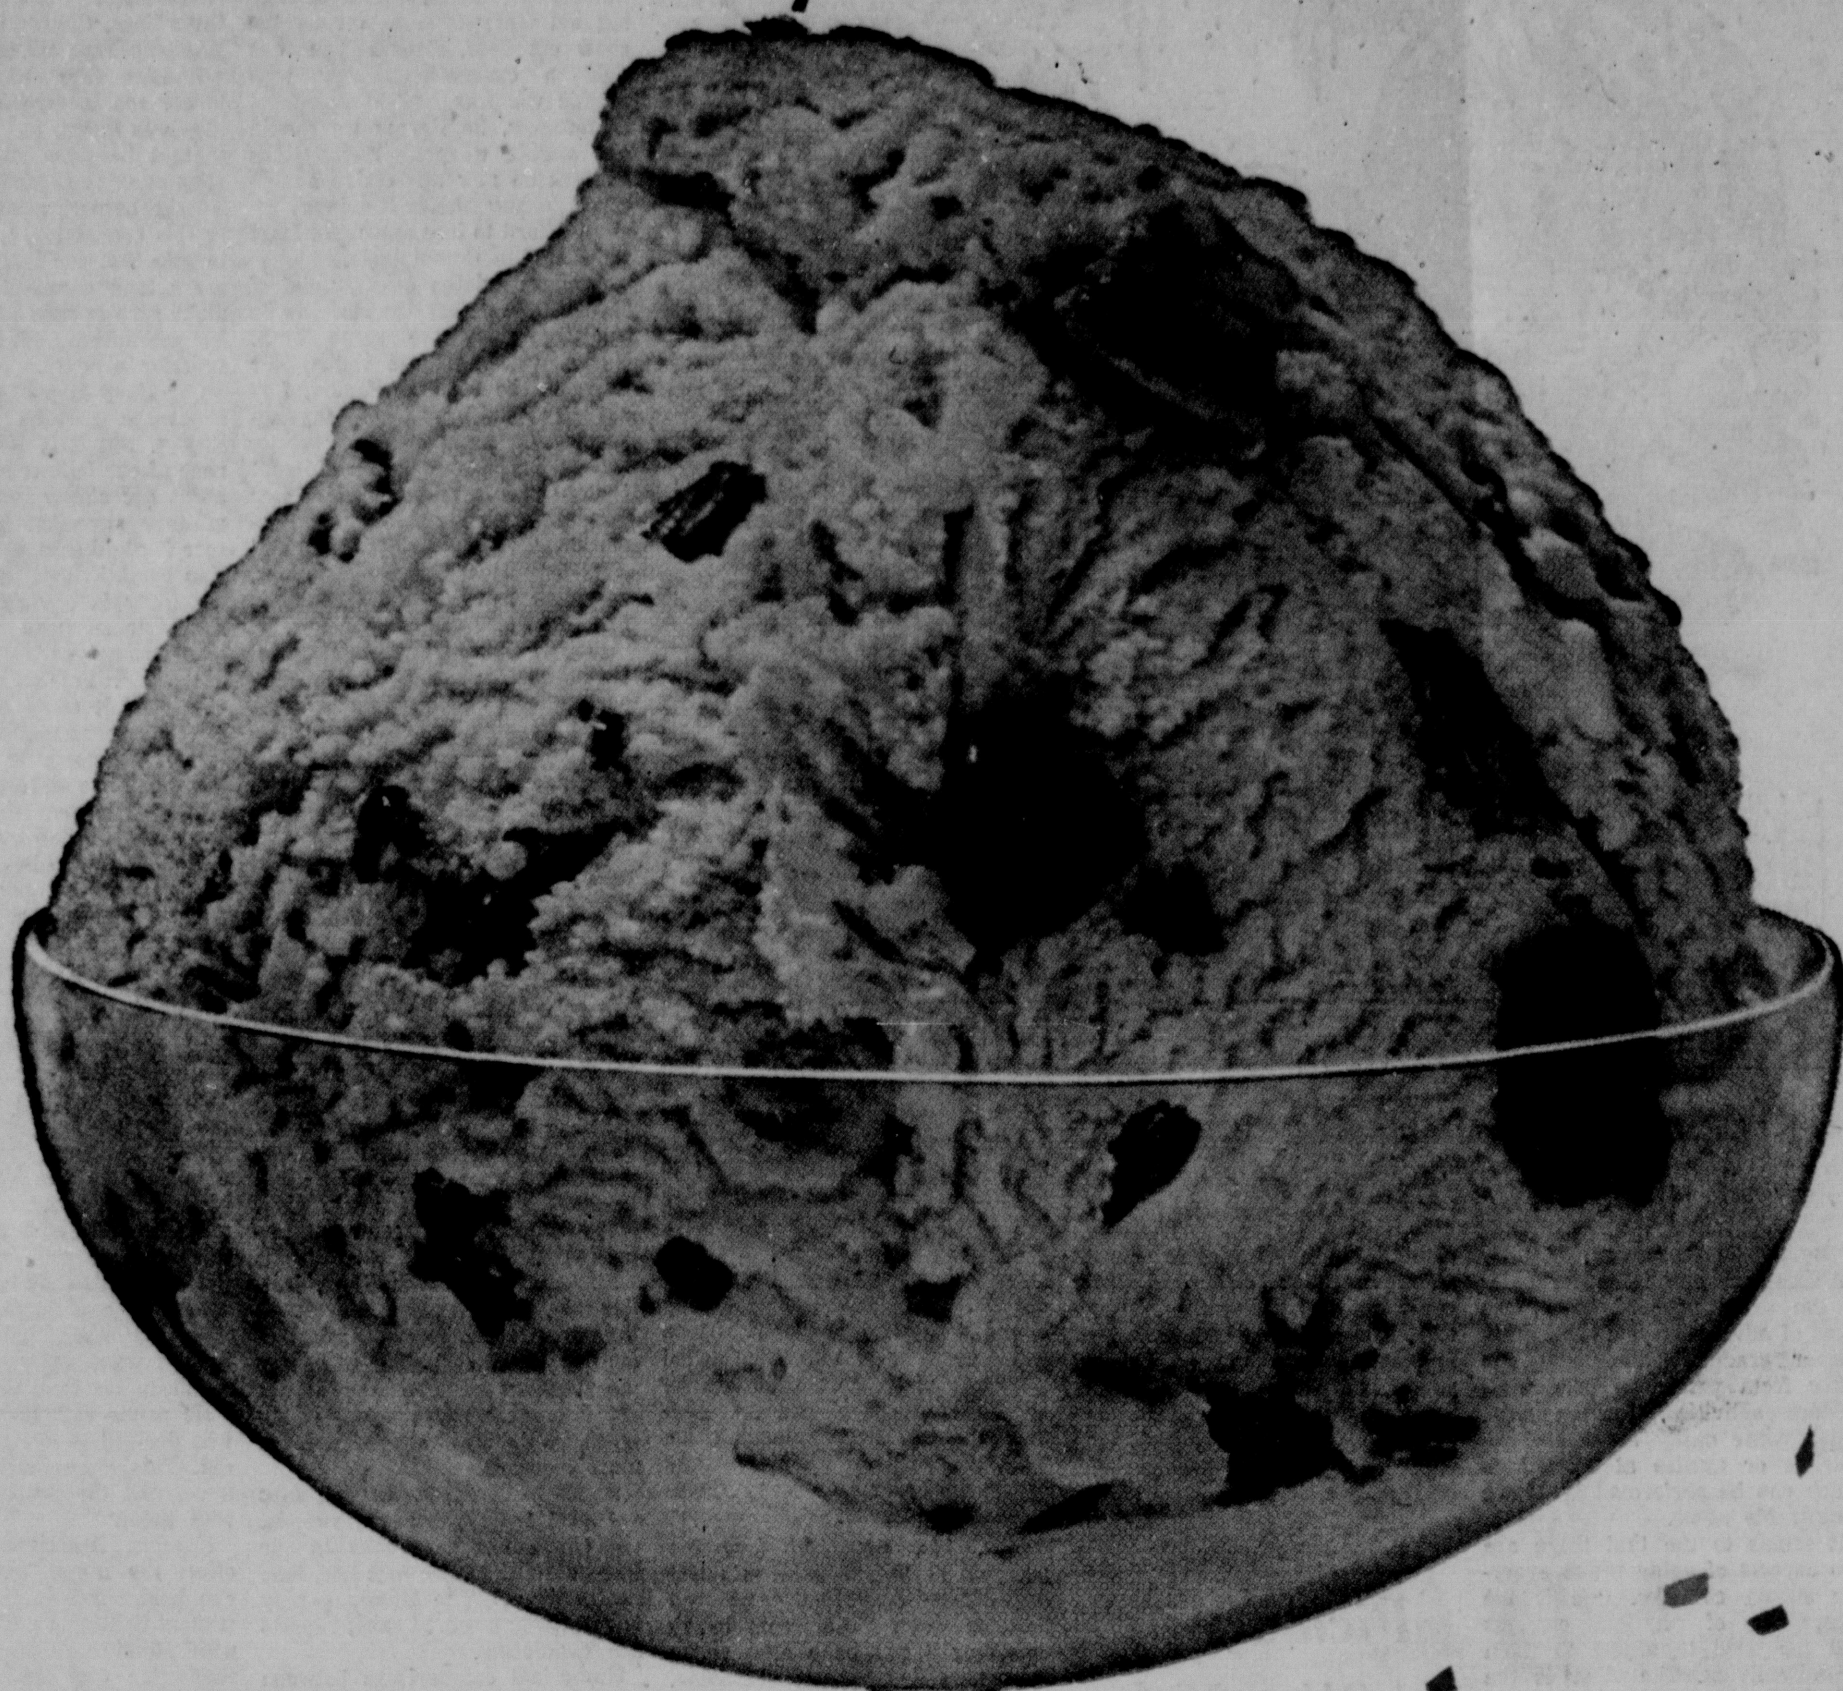

"Dwight Junior goes to grade school, and Helen... she goes to kindergarten right now. We live right near the shore. I'm going to get a sailboat when I'm home on my next leave. I guess that'll be next September."

Moira was silent, knowing that Dwight's family was dead, knowing that in September they, too, would be dead. Dwight broke the silence, "I suppose you think I'm nuts, but that's the way I see it, and I can't seem to think about it any other way."
